

THE ANCIENT MONUMENTS AND ARCHAEOLOGICAL AREAS ACT 1979 12523
ENTRY IN THE SCHEDULE OF MONUMENTS

The monument known as Bruce's Camp, hillfort comprises a fort of later prehistoric date. It is situated on the summit of Shaw Hill, also known as Hill of Crichtie, at 170m above sea level. The fort measures 250m E-W by 150m transversely and encloses an area of 2.5ha. It is enclosed by a stony rampart that measures 5m in thickness and up to 1.5m in height. In several places, there are traces of a later enclosure wall of relatively recent date extending along its crest. There is an outer rampart extending along the SSW side of the fort and around the WNW end. This rampart is now reduced to little more than a scarp 0.5m in height, which closes on the main rampart on the NNW and SSE. Near the centre of the fort, to the south of the dyke bisecting the interior, is a granite cup-marked boulder. The boulder measures 1.4m in length by 0.5m thick and 0.6m high. The area to be scheduled is irregular on plan, to include the remains described and an area around within which evidence relating to its construction and use may survive. The above-ground elements of the drystone wall and post-and-wire fence bisecting the monument are specifically excluded, to allow for their maintenance. The monument, which lies in the Parish of Kintore and the County of Aberdeen as shown in red on the Plan annexed and executed as relative hereto is hereby included in the Schedule of Monuments appearing to the Scottish Ministers to be of national importance compiled and maintained by them under section 1(1) of the Ancient Monuments and Archaeological Areas Act 1979.

Subscribed by Malcolm Cooper, Chief Inspector with Historic Scotland, being an officer of the Scottish Ministers at Edinburgh on the 31 day of May Two thousand and nine, before this witness Luke Wormald, of Longmore House, Salisbury Place, Edinburgh.
