

The monument known as Hurly Hawkin, enclosure, broch and souterrain 80m S of comprises the remains of a double-ditched enclosure, a probable broch and a souterrain. The enclosure was created probably in the late Bronze Age or Iron Age, after 1200 BC. The broch and souterrain date to later in the Iron Age, probably between 300 BC and AD 250. The remains are visible on the ground as low earthworks with some large stones protruding through the surface. Some sections of the broch wall-face are also visible. The monument stands 80m above sea level on a steep-sided tongue of land between two deeply cut watercourses, in a prominent position overlooking the Carse of Gowrie and the Tay. The area to be scheduled is irregular on plan, to include the remains described above and an area around them within which evidence relating to the monument's construction, use and abandonment may survive. The scheduling excludes the above-ground elements of a post-and-wire fence to allow for its maintenance; the scheduling also excludes a garden shed that lies immediately N of the scheduled area. The monument, which lies in the Parish of Liff and Benvie and the County of Angus as shown in red on the Plan annexed and executed as relative hereto and which forms part of the subjects described in the aftermentioned deeds
