THE ANCIENT MONUMENTS AND ARCHAEOLOGICAL AREAS ACT 1979 227
ENTRY IN THE SCHEDULE OF MONUMENTS

The monument known as Rhudil Mill, cairn 410m ENE of comprises a cairn of the Neolithic or Bronze Age, built some time between 4000 and 1000 BC. It is visible as a low, sub-circular, mainly turf-covered mound of boulders, measuring about 22m ENE-WSW by 18m transversely and standing up to 1m high. Near the centre of the cairn is a large capstone, measuring 1.75m by 1.3m by 0.15m thick. This covers a hollow, defined along its SE edge by a slab about 1.7m long and 0.15 m thick; below the capstone on the NW is a possible fallen side-slab. A shallow depression occurs about 4m SW of the capstone, with an orthostat visible at its N end, indicating the presence of a second possible cist or chamber. The cairn stands on a rocky knoll at 100m above sea level. The area to be scheduled is circular on plan, 42m in diameter, centred on the centre of the cairn. The scheduling includes the remains described above and an area around them within which evidence relating to the monument's construction, use and abandonment may survive. The monument, which lies in the Parish of Kilmichael Glassary and the County of Argyll as shown in red on the Plan annexed and executed as relative hereto [redacted], is hereby included in the Schedule of Monuments appearing to the Scottish Ministers to be of national importance compiled and maintained by them under section 1(1) of the Ancient Monuments and Archaeological Areas Act 1979.

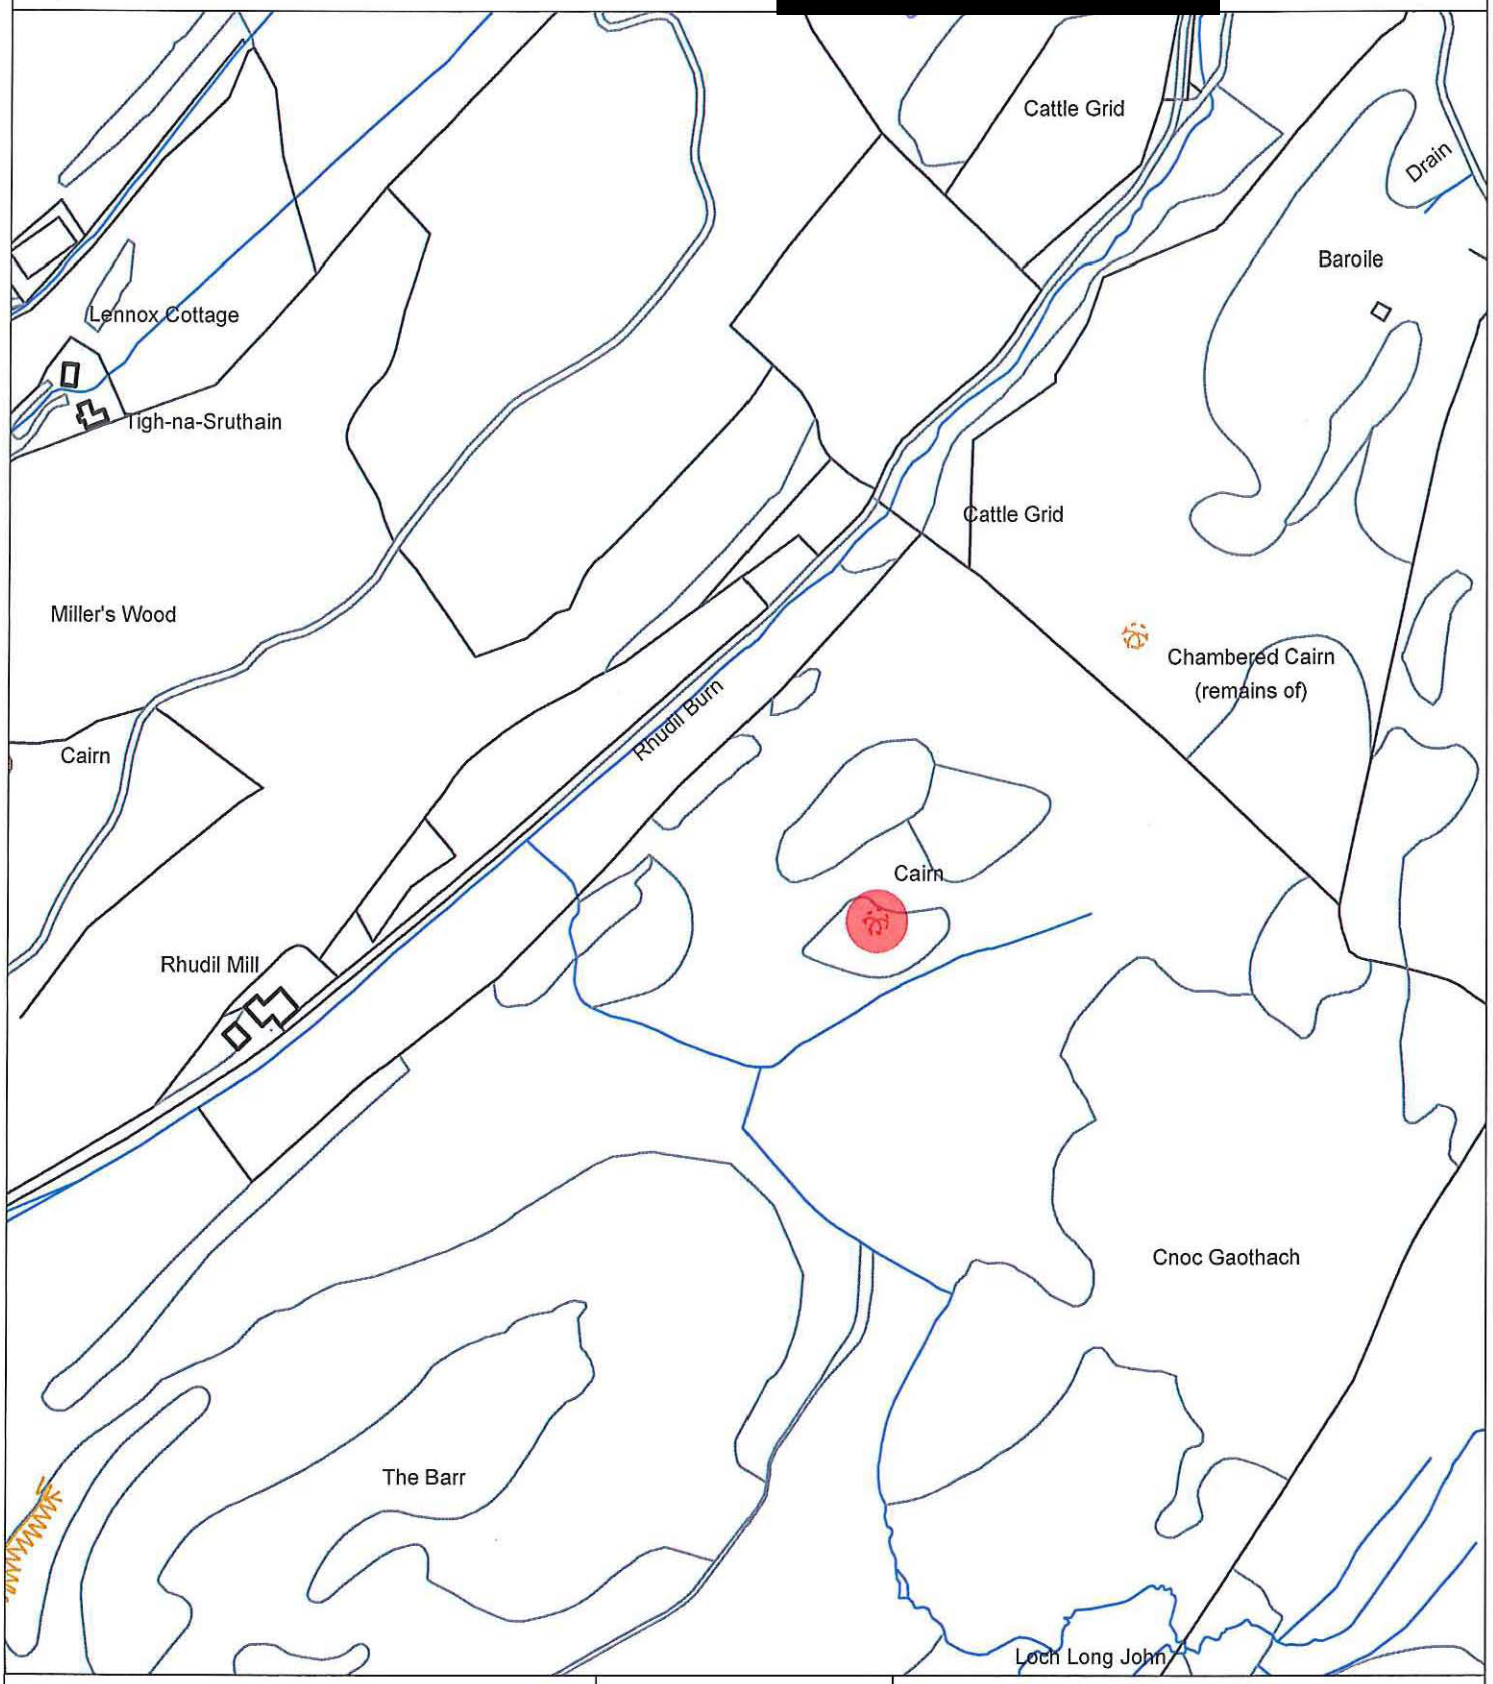

Subscribed by Olwyn Owen, Head of Scheduling, Marine and Battlefields with Historic Scotland, being an officer of the Scottish Ministers at Edinburgh on the 4th day of February Two thousand and thirteen, before this witness Christine Kelly, of Longmore House, Salisbury Place, Edinburgh.
