THE ANCIENT MONUMENTS AND ARCHAEOLOGICAL AREAS ACT 1979 1233
ENTRY IN THE SCHEDULE OF MONUMENTS

The monument known as Princess Stone, cross-slab 250m SSW of Glenferness House, comprises a symbol-bearing Pictish cross-slab, that dates to the 8th or 9th century AD. The monument lies close to the River Findhorn, at a height of 175m above sea level. It is a roughly pointed slab of greenish sandstone with quartz veins, standing 1.6m above the ground. The area to be scheduled is circular, centred on the cross-slab, to include the upstanding monument, the supporting flanking stones and an area around for its support and preservation. It specifically excludes the top 20cm of the path running past the monument, to allow for its maintenance. The monument, which lies in the Parish of Ardclach and the County of Nairn as shown outlined in red on the Plan annexed and executed as relative hereto [redacted] is hereby included in the Schedule of Monuments appearing to the Scottish Ministers to be of national importance compiled and maintained by them under section 1(1) of the Ancient Monuments and Archaeological Areas Act 1979.

Subscribed by Malcolm Cooper, Chief Inspector with Historic Scotland, being an officer of the Scottish Ministers at Edinburgh on the 2 day of March Two thousand and seven, before this witness Victoria Ball, of Longmore House, Salisbury Place, Edinburgh.
