ENTRY IN THE SCHEDULE OF MONUMENTS

The monument known as West Puldrite, two mounds 280m NNW of comprises the remains of two barrows dating from the Bronze Age (between about 2000 and 800 BC). The barrows are visible as two low-lying, sub-circular, turf-covered earthen mounds. The N mound measures 12m and survives to a height of 0.4m; the remains of a cist visible towards the NW side of the mound comprise a top stone slab and four side slabs. The smaller S mound measures 7.5m diameter, 0.7m high. The monument occupies sloping ground at the neck of a promontory overlooking the Bay of Isbister 800m to the SW, and the Bay of Puldrite, 600m to the E, at an altitude of around 40m above OD. The scheduled area is irregular on plan to include the remains described above and an area around them within which evidence relating to the monument's construction, use and abandonment is expected to survive. The scheduling specifically excludes the above-ground elements of the post-and-wire fence to allow for its maintenance. The monument, which lies in the Parish of Evie and Rendall and the County of Orkney and Zetland as shown in red on the Plan annexed and executed as relative hereto and which forms part of the subjects described in the aftermentioned deeds or registered in the Land Register of Scotland as follows: 1.
