THE ANCIENT MONUMENTS AND ARCHAEOLOGICAL AREAS ACT 1979 1652
ENTRY IN THE SCHEDULE OF MONUMENTS

The monument known as Whitemoss Roman Fort, 175m SW of Rosarymount comprises the buried remains of a Roman fort and attached annex, visible from the air as cropmarks indicating the extent of the defensive ditches and some internal features. The area falls within three separate fields. Excavations of the fort in the 1950s confirmed it was of Antonine date and consisted of three possible phases. The area to be scheduled is irregular on plan, to include the remains described above and an area around them within which evidence relating to the monument's construction, use and abandonment may survive. The scheduled area extends up to, but excludes, all modern roads and verges. To allow for their maintenance, the scheduling specifically excludes the above-ground remains of post-and-wire fences, telegraph poles, pylons and boundary walls; the top 200mm of existing paths and the above-ground elements of all street furniture and signage. The monument, which lies in the Parish of Erskine and the County of Renfrew as shown in red on the Plan annexed and executed as relative hereto [redacted], is hereby included in the Schedule of Monuments appearing to the Scottish Ministers to be of national importance compiled and maintained by them under section 1(1) of the Ancient Monuments and Archaeological Areas Act 1979.

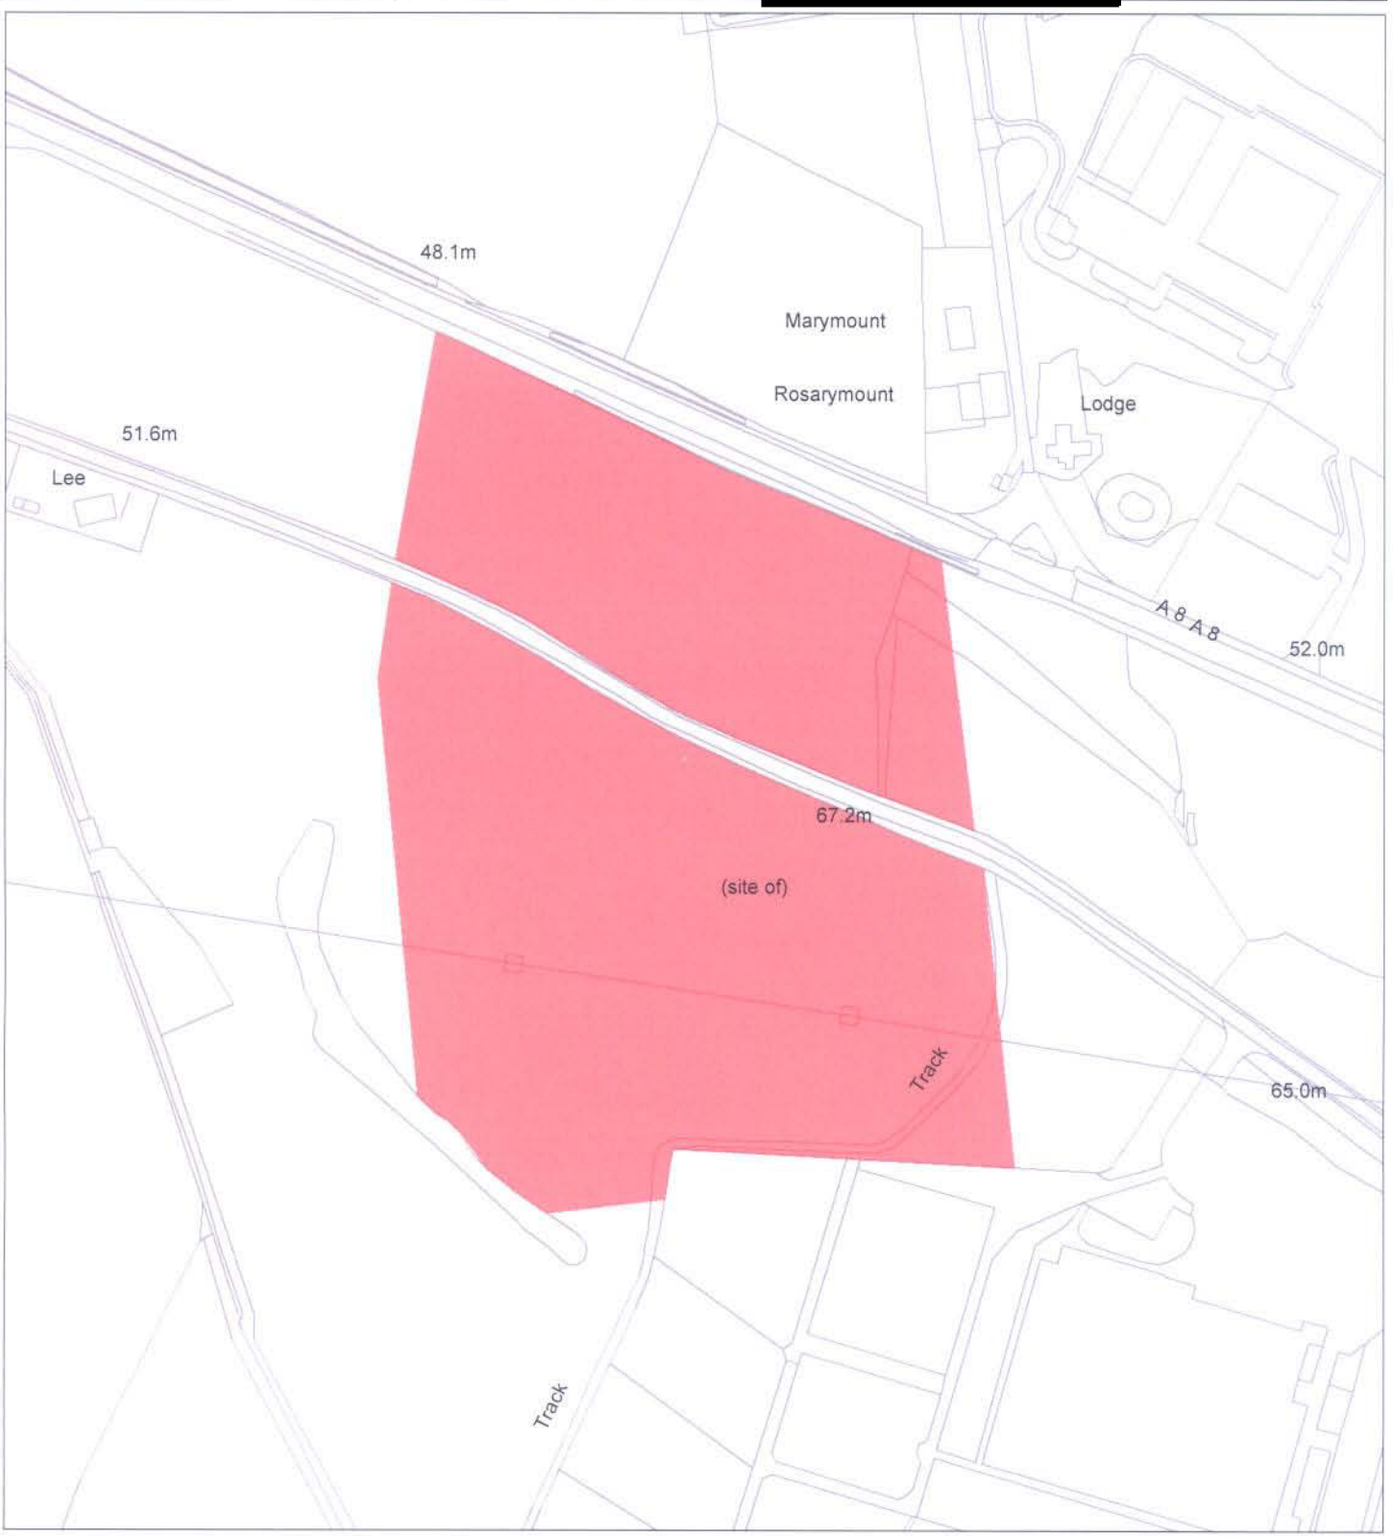

Subscribed by Deborah Mays, Deputy Chief Inspector with Historic Scotland, being an officer of the Scottish Ministers at Edinburgh on the 11th day of February Two thousand and eleven, before this witness Victoria Murray, of Longmore House, Salisbury Place, Edinburgh.
