THE ANCIENT MONUMENTS AND ARCHAEOLOGICAL AREAS ACT 1979 2365
ENTRY IN THE SCHEDULE OF MONUMENTS

The monument known as Glencroft, chapel site 85m NE of, Islay comprises the remains of an early medieval chapel and burial ground, dating probably from sometime between the 10th and 14th centuries. Visible as a low turf-covered wall outline, the chapel measures 4.2m E-W by 2.5m transversely, within collapsed walls surviving up to 0.5m high and spread to 1m wide. The burial ground surrounding the chapel is roughly rectangular in shape, measuring about 23m N-S by 22m transversely; it is enclosed by a stone wall surviving up to 0.7m high on the N side. The monument lies within rough grassland adjacent to the coast, separated from the sea to the E by a drystone dyke and the A847 trunk road. The scheduled area is irregular on plan. It includes the remains described above and an area around them within which evidence relating to the monument's construction and use may survive. The remains of the drystone wall and a post-and-wire fence along the E boundary of the site are specifically excluded from the scheduling to allow for their maintenance. The monument, which lies in the Parish of Kilchoman and the County of Argyll as shown in red on the Plan annexed and executed as relative hereto [redacted], is hereby included in the Schedule of Monuments appearing to the Scottish Ministers to be of national importance compiled and maintained by them under section 1(1) of the Ancient Monuments and Archaeological Areas Act 1979.

This entry supersedes the entry in the Schedule of Monuments for the monument known as Glencroft, Chapel site 85m NE of, Islay as referred to in the Entry in the Schedule of Monuments by the Scottish Ministers in respect of the monument dated 16 July 2013.

Subscribed by Olwyn Owen, Head of Scheduling, Marine and Battlefields with Historic Scotland, being an officer of the Scottish Ministers at Edinburgh on the 9th day of September Two thousand and thirteen, before this witness Christine Kelly, of Longmore House, Salisbury Place, Edinburgh.
