THE ANCIENT MONUMENTS AND ARCHAEOLOGICAL AREAS ACT 1979 3786
ENTRY IN THE SCHEDULE OF MONUMENTS

The monument known as Creag Aoil, fort 670m WSW of Tulloch Beag comprises a prehistoric defended settlement or promontory fort likely to date to the Iron Age (between 500 BC and AD 500). It survives as low, turf-covered rubble walling enclosing a natural, steep-sided headland. The walling cuts across the headland on the S side, creating a roughly D-shaped enclosure. The monument is under rough grazing at approximately 30m above sea level and has commanding views westwards and to the N and E towards Luing and across Loch Melfort. The area to be scheduled is irregular on plan and extends to the base of the rock outcrop on which the monument is sited. The scheduled area includes the remains described above, an area around them within which evidence relating to the monument's construction, use and abandonment may survive, and adjoining land essential for the monument's support and preservation. The monument, which lies in the Parish of Kilninver and Kilmelford and the County of Argyll as shown in red on the Plan annexed and executed as relative hereto [redacted] is hereby included in the Schedule of Monuments appearing to the Scottish Ministers to be of national importance compiled and maintained by them under section 1(1) of the Ancient Monuments and Archaeological Areas Act 1979.

This entry supersedes the entry in the Schedule of Monuments for the monument known then as Creag Aoil, fort, Loch Malfort as referred to in the Certificate of Service of Notice by the Secretary of State for Scotland in respect of the monument dated 19 December 1975 and recorded in the General Register of Sasines for the County of Argyll on 8 January 1976.

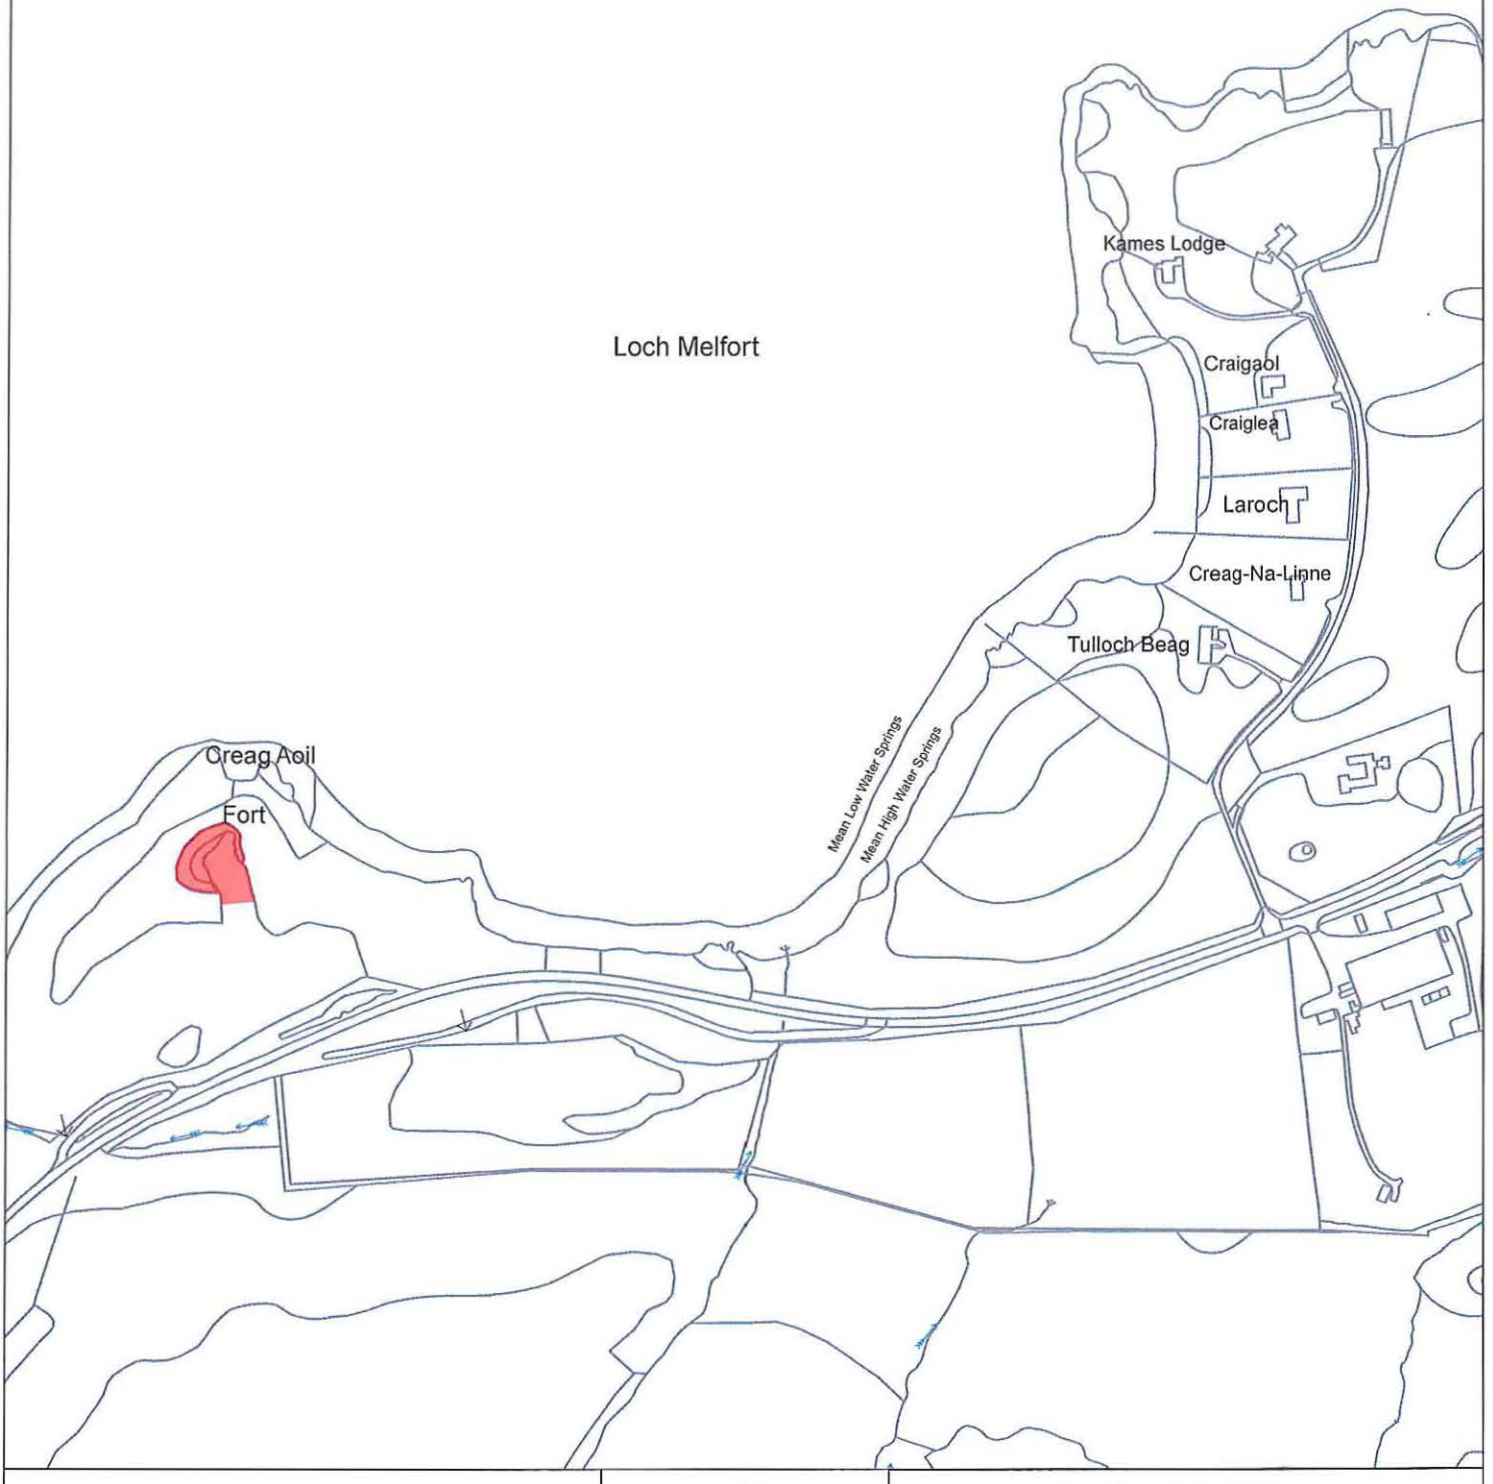

Subscribed by Olwyn Owen, Head of Scheduling, Marine and Battlefields with Historic Scotland, being an officer of the Scottish Ministers at Edinburgh on the 15th day of March Two thousand and thirteen, before this witness Christine Kelly, of Longmore House, Salisbury Place, Edinburgh.
