THE ANCIENT MONUMENTS AND ARCHAEOLOGICAL AREAS ACT 1979 3962
ENTRY IN THE SCHEDULE OF MONUMENTS

The monument known as Fasnacloich, crannog 320m S of comprises the remains of a crannog, an artificial island settlement thought to date to the later first millennium BC. It survives as the submerged and above-water components of a substantial stone mound which is likely to contain and overlie significant structural, artefactual and ecofactual remains. The visible island is roughly circular in shape with a maximum diameter of 9.5m. The stone mound stands up to 1.5m high at the centre. The crannog is located approximately 20m offshore from the SW shore of Loch Baile Mhich Chailein in lower Glen Creran, at approximately 5m above sea level. The scheduled area is irregular on plan to include the remains described above and an area around them within which evidence relating to the monument's construction, use and abandonment may survive. The area extends 5m beyond the edge of the visible remains of the island. The monument, which lies in the Parish of Lismore and Appin and the County of Argyll as shown in red on the Plan annexed and executed as relative hereto [redacted], is hereby included in the Schedule of Monuments appearing to the Scottish Ministers to be of national importance compiled and maintained by them under section 1(1) of the Ancient Monuments and Archaeological Areas Act 1979.

This entry supersedes the entry in the Schedule of Monuments for the monument known then as Fasnacloich, cairn 350m S of as referred to in the Certificate of Service of Notice by The Secretary of State for Scotland in respect of the monument dated 4 March 1977 and recorded in the General Register of Sasines for the County of Argyll on 20 May 1977.

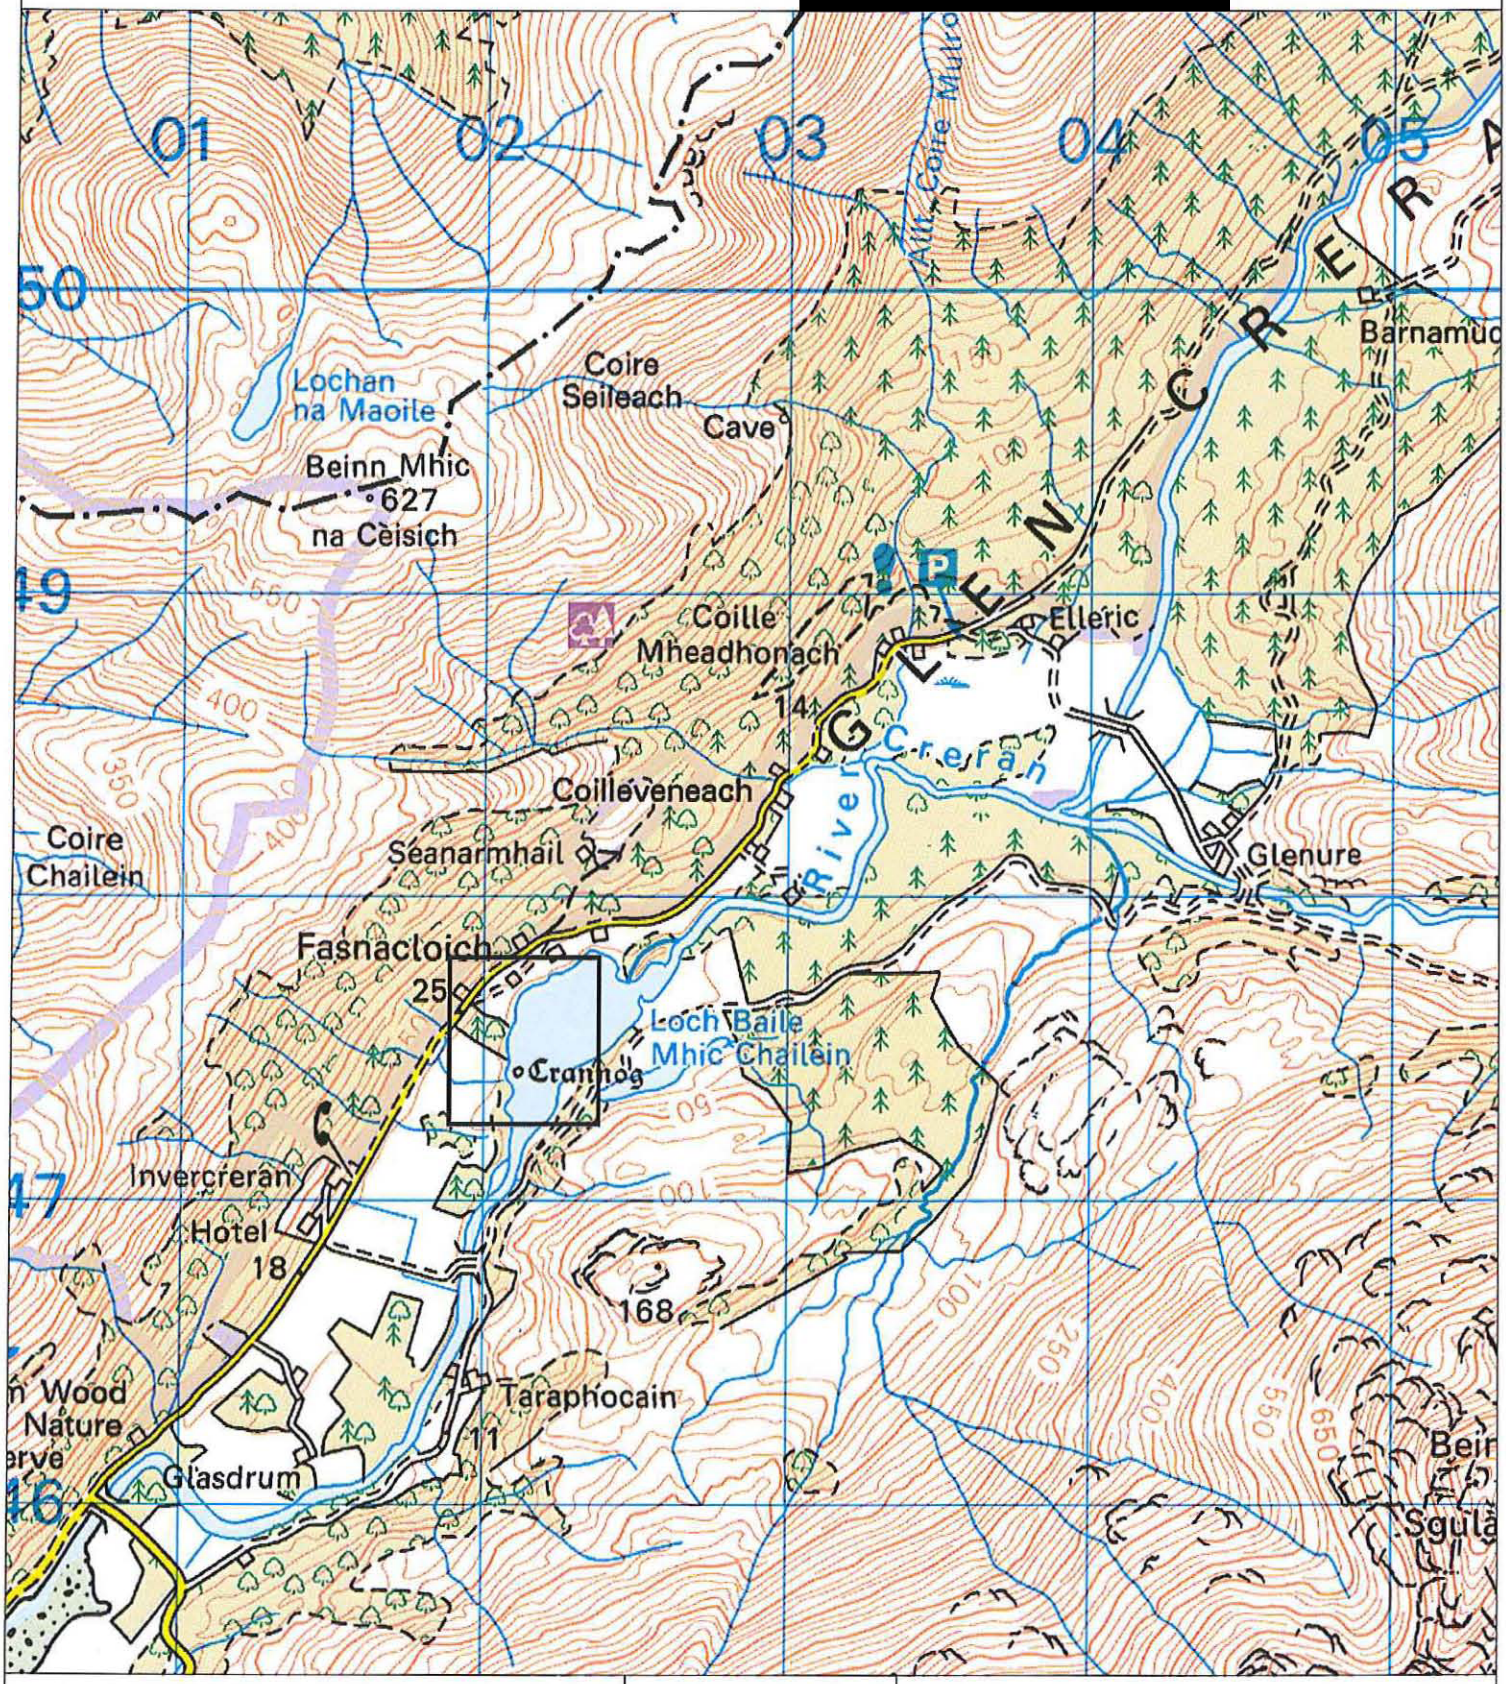

Subscribed by Olwyn A Owen, Head of Scheduling, Marine and Battlefields with Historic Scotland, being an officer of the Scottish Ministers at Edinburgh on the 15th day of August Two thousand and thirteen, before this witness Christine Kelly, of Longmore House, Salisbury Place, Edinburgh.
