THE ANCIENT MONUMENTS AND ARCHAEOLOGICAL AREAS ACT 1979 4101
ENTRY IN THE SCHEDULE OF MONUMENTS

The monument known as Greendykes, enclosure 310m SSE of comprises the remains of a prehistoric settlement enclosure dating probably to between 1200 BC and AD 400. The settlement lies buried beneath the plough soil and is visible as a cropmark captured on oblique aerial photographs. The cropmark shows that the enclosure is roughly circular on plan and measures 37m N-S by 28m transversely. A single ditch 2m wide is broken by a wide gap on the W side and a smaller gap on the E side; the gap on the E side may be an entrance. The monument occupies an area of gently sloping ground on the coastal plain above Port Seton at around 80m OD. The scheduled area is circular on plan. It measures 70m in diameter and is centred on the middle of the enclosure, to include the remains described above and an area around them within which evidence relating to the monument's construction, use and abandonment is expected to survive. The above-ground elements of telegraph poles within the scheduled area are specifically excluded to allow for their maintenance. The monument, which lies in the Parish of Gladsmuir and the County of East Lothian as shown in red on the Plan annexed and executed as relative hereto and which forms part of the subjects described in the aftermentioned deeds or registered in the Land Register of Scotland as follows:

[redacted] is hereby included in the Schedule of Monuments appearing to the Scottish Ministers to be of national importance compiled and maintained by them under section 1(1) of the Ancient Monuments and Archaeological Areas Act 1979.
