THE ANCIENT MONUMENTS AND ARCHAEOLOGICAL AREAS ACT 1979
ENTRY IN THE SCHEDULE OF MONUMENTS

The monument known as Lochlands Roman camps comprises the remains of a series of at least 10-12 Roman temporary camps which are sited in the area now immediately west, south and east of the Lochlands Industrial Estate, Larbert and in the triangular area between the Glasgow/Stirling/Falkirk railway lines of Larbert Junction. The area to be scheduled is irregular in shape and is in five different portions. The largest part lies to the W and SW of the main Lochlands industrial estate complex, and extends south to cover part of a single discrete camp now crossed by the modern Lochlands Loan road. Two triangular parts (the larger measuring a maximum of 593m along its long axis by a maximum of 146m wide; the smaller measuring 210m by 165m by 139m) are sited in the area between Lochlands Loan and the N-S running railway line. A fourth small area, measuring a maximum of 170m by 70m, lies to the E of the N-S running railway line, and the fifth measuring a maximum of 394m N-S by a maximum of 343m E-W, lies within the triangular area formed by the junction of the Glasgow-Stirling-Edinburgh railway lines. The scheduled areas are based on modern transcriptions of oblique aerial photographs and do not match with all of the Ordnance Survey's modern depictions of the camps, which are purely indicative. The above ground portions of modern structures such as pylons and disused railway embankments are excluded from the scheduling. The monument, which lies in the Parish of Falkirk and the County of Stirling as shown outlined in red on the Plan annexed and executed as relative hereto and which forms part of the subjects 1. described in the [redacted] is hereby included in the Schedule of Monuments appearing to the Scottish Ministers to be of national importance compiled and maintained by them under section 1(1) of the Ancient Monuments and Archaeological Areas Act 1979.

Subscribed by Frank James Lawrie, Director of Heritage Policy with Historic Scotland, being an officer of the Scottish Ministers at Edinburgh on the 16th day of August Two thousand and one, before this witness Lesley Macdonald, of Longmore House, Salisbury Place, Edinburgh.
