THE ANCIENT MONUMENTS AND ARCHAEOLOGICAL AREAS ACT 1979
ENTRY IN THE SCHEDULE OF MONUMENTS

The monument known as Todholes, cairn 1300m NNW of being a double ring cairn of the late Neolithic/earlier Bronze Age (some 3500 to 4500 years old) comprises a band of stones 2m across enclosing an area 14m in diameter in which lies a further ring cairn, comprising a band of stones 2m across enclosing an area 5m in diameter. The monument may have purely ceremonial functions or may have combined these with contemporary or later use for burial. The monument is sited on a prominent knoll with extensive views to S and E; the site was probably chosen because of its prominent position. The area to be scheduled includes the double ring cairn and an area round it in which traces of activities associated with the construction and use of the monument will survive; in addition the sight lines from the monument will be preserved by inclusion of the S and E slopes of the knoll in the scheduled area. The area to be scheduled is four sided and measures a maximum of 120m ENE-WSW by 80m transversely. The monument which lies in the Parish of Fintry and the County of Stirling as shown outlined in red on the Plan annexed and executed as relative hereto [redacted] is hereby included in the Schedule of Monuments appearing to the Secretary of State for Scotland to be of national importance compiled and maintained by him under section 1(1) of the Ancient Monuments and Archaeological Areas Act 1979.

Given under the Seal of the Secretary of State for Scotland.
