The monument known as Redlatches, settlement and field system 200m W of comprises a settlement and field system of the later Bronze Age/Iron Age situated on an east facing hillside. The settlement comprises the remains of eleven circular stone-walled houses, divided into two small groups. Five are set into the spine of a ridge on the NE slope of the hill. Four are 10m in diameter; the fifth is 13m in diameter. The second group, of six, lies c100m to the S. They vary in diameter from 6.2m to the largest at 12.5m. The field system associated with the houses is of limited extent and is marked by low banks, lynchets and clearance cairns. An area measuring a maximum of 360m N to S by 285m transversely (the E side lying along the modern field wall) is proposed for scheduling, to include the settlement and its associated field system. The monument, which lies in the Parish of Glenisla and the County of Angus as shown outlined in red on the Plan annexed and executed as relative hereto
