THE ANCIENT MONUMENTS AND ARCHAEOLOGICAL AREAS ACT 1979
ENTRY IN THE SCHEDULE OF MONUMENTS

The monument known as Easter Cammock, settlements, field systems and cairn 650m SW of being a settlement of the later Bronze Age/Iron Age (2,500 to 3,500 years old), overlain in part by a settlement dating from before the agricultural improvements (200 to 500 years old), both associated with contemporary field systems. The earlier settlement comprises the remains of 13 stone-walled circular houses, 3 of which are of double walled "Dalrulzian" type. The complex field system associated with the settlement is marked by clearly defined field banks, lynchets and clearance cairns (some of which may actually be burial cairns). The later settlement comprises the remains of at least 4 long houses, one of which is surrounded by a later yard. Some walls mark the extent of the contemporary field system. Within the area to be scheduled are the remains of a burial cairn of the Bronze Age, measuring 12m in diameter and 1m high. A 5-sided area measuring a maximum of 640m E-W by a maximum of 510m N-S is proposed for scheduling, to include the later Bronze Age/Iron Age settlement and field system and the pre-improvement settlement and field system, and the Bronze Age cairn. The S boundary of the area is defined by the course of an un-named burn. The W and N sides of the area are defined by modern field boundaries, which are themselves excluded from the scheduling. The monument, which lies in the Parish of Glenisla and the County of Angus as shown outlined in red on the Plan annexed and executed as relative hereto and which forms
