

THE ANCIENT MONUMENTS AND ARCHAEOLOGICAL AREAS ACT 1979 4600
ENTRY IN THE SCHEDULE OF MONUMENTS

The monument known as Castle Hill, motte, Bridge of Weir comprises the remains of a motte associated with an Anglo-Norman timber castle likely to date to the 12th or 13th centuries AD. It is visible as a substantial mound with surrounding ditch, constructed in a prominent position at the top of a natural slope. It stands at around 110m above sea level in land now used as a golf course, overlooking the valley of the River Gryfe. The area to be scheduled is sub-circular on plan, to include the remains described above and an area around them within which evidence relating to the monument's construction, use and abandonment may survive. To allow for its maintenance, the scheduling excludes the above-ground elements of a flagpole sited on top of the motte. The monument, which lies in the Parish of Kilbarchan and the County of Renfrew as shown in red on the Plan annexed and executed as relative hereto [REDACTED]

[REDACTED], is hereby included in the Schedule of Monuments appearing to the Scottish Ministers to be of national importance compiled and maintained by them under section 1(1) of the Ancient Monuments and Archaeological Areas Act 1979.

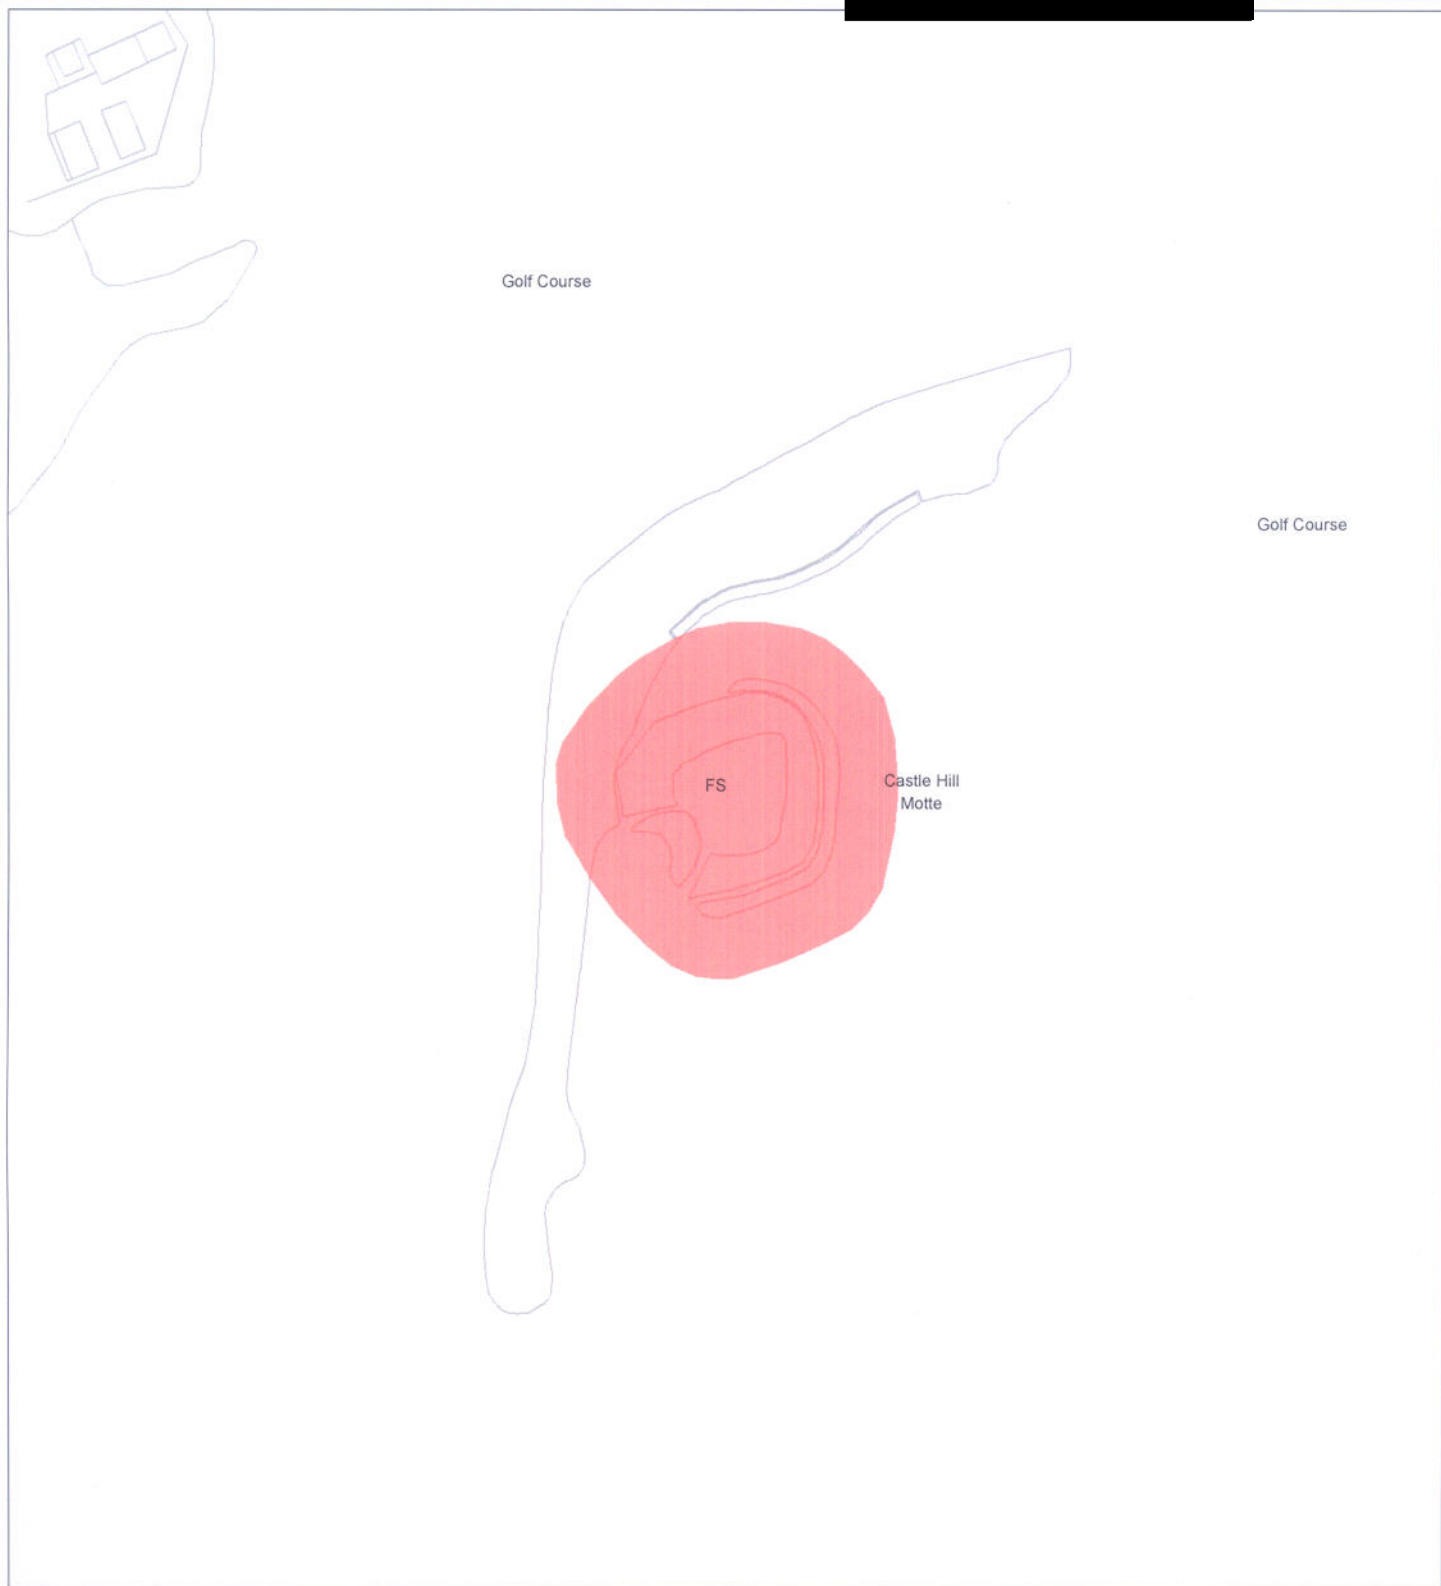

Subscribed by Deborah Mays, Deputy Chief Inspector with Historic Scotland, being an officer of the Scottish Ministers at Edinburgh on the 11th day of February Two thousand and eleven, before this witness Victoria Murray, of Longmore House, Salisbury Place, Edinburgh.
