THE ANCIENT MONUMENTS AND ARCHAEOLOGICAL AREAS ACT 1979
ENTRY IN THE SCHEDULE OF MONUMENTS

The monument known as Kilchattan, Old Parish Church, Colonsay comprises the remains of a rectangular medieval parish church, possibly of the later 14th century, measuring 8.3m by 4.5m within walls 0.85m thick, built of random rubble masonry in lime mortar. There are traces of a splayed E window, flanked by a pair of aumbries, and of another window in the S wall near the E end. The W wall and western part of the S wall, however, are not visible above ground, and what does remain of the building stands no more than 2.3m high. The area in and around the church is disturbed by burials (the earliest dated one being 1789) and a gardener's shed (timber and corrugated iron) has been constructed in the NE angle. The scheduled area includes the foundations (presumed) and standing walls of the church, the area contained by them and a zone extending 1m outside them, forming a total area of 12m by 8.2m. The monument, which lies in the Parish of Colonsay and Oronsay and the County of Argyll as shown outlined in red on the Plan annexed and executed as relative hereto and which forms part [redacted] is hereby included in the Schedule of Monuments appearing to the Secretary of State for Scotland to be of national importance compiled and maintained by him under section 1(1) of the Ancient Monuments and Archaeological Areas Act 1979.

Given under the Seal of the Secretary of State for Scotland.
