THE ANCIENT MONUMENTS AND ARCHAEOLOGICAL AREAS ACT 1979
ENTRY IN THE SCHEDULE OF MONUMENTS

The monument known as Dun a 'Ghallain, dun, Griminish comprises an Iron Age fortified site, or dun, situated on the largest island in Loch an Eilean. The dun consists of an irregular circuit of walling 3m wide, enclosing an area some 12m N-S by 14m E-W. The entrance is on the NE side, and consists of a paved passage 0.8m wide. The interior is overgrown, but appears to have been roughly paved. The irregular surface of the small island to the SE of the dun, and outside its walls, suggests the presence of further remains of archaeological interest. The area to be scheduled is 25m NE-SW by 45m NW-SE, to include the whole surface area of the island, including the dun. The monument, which lies in the Parish of North Uist and the County of Inverness as shown outlined in red on the Plan annexed and executed as relative hereto And
