THE ANCIENT MONUMENTS AND ARCHAEOLOGICAL AREAS ACT 1979
ENTRY IN THE SCHEDULE OF MONUMENTS

The monument known as Leac a' Mhiosachan, recumbent stones on summit of Craonaval comprises of two very large recumbent stones, which may be the remains of a burial cairn or else fallen standing stones, on the summit of Craonaval. Two large slabs, which appear to have been deliberately brought to the site, lie 1m apart. One measures 3.8m by 3.2m by 0.3m, the other 2.5m by 1.8m by 0.25m. Both rest on smaller stones. Although it has been suggested that they represent the remains of a chambered cairn, totally removed apart from these two slabs, it seems more likely that they represent a pair of fallen standing stones. They occupy a hilltop location at the S extremity of the local group of cairns, standing stones and stone circles which stretches N to Barpa Langass. The area to be scheduled is circular, 40m in diameter and centred on the stones, to include the stones and an area around in which evidence for their former use and status may survive. The monument, which lies in the Parish of North Uist and the County of Inverness as shown outlined in red on the Plan annexed and executed as relative hereto and which is hereby included in the Schedule of Monuments appearing to the Secretary of State for Scotland to be of national importance compiled and maintained by him under section 1(1) of the Ancient Monuments and Archaeological Areas Act 1979.
