

THE ANCIENT MONUMENTS AND ARCHAEOLOGICAL AREAS ACT 1979 6641
ENTRY IN THE SCHEDULE OF MONUMENTS

The monument known as Souterrain, Eastern Cemetery, Arbroath comprises part of a stone-lined souterrain of the later Iron Age, in use probably between around 250 BC and AD 400. It was discovered in 1932 and partially excavated, but was filled in during the 1990s. The position of the NE end of the souterrain is now visible as a shallow depression in the ground surface; the SW end extends beneath 20th-century graves and is not included in this scheduling. The portion of the souterrain that is scheduled measures 6.7m long by 1.2m wide. The monument stands within Arbroath's Eastern Cemetery, lying about 40m above sea level on the NW side of a clay knoll. The scheduled area is an irregular shape on plan, to include the remains described above and an area around them in which evidence for the monument's construction, use and abandonment may survive. On the S side the scheduling extends up to but excludes a row of 20th-century graves. The monument, which lies in the Parish of Arbroath and St Vigeans and the County of Angus as shown in red on the Plan annexed and executed as relative hereto

, is hereby included in the Schedule of Monuments appearing to the Scottish Ministers to be of national importance compiled and maintained by them under section 1(1) of the Ancient Monuments and Archaeological Areas Act 1979.

This entry supersedes the Entry in the Schedule of Monuments for the monument known then as Eastern Cemetery, Arbroath, souterrain as referred to in the Entry in the Schedule of Monuments by the Secretary of State for Scotland in respect of the monument dated 12 March 1997 and recorded in the General Register of Sasines for the County of Angus on 7 October 1997.

Subscribed by Olwyn A Owen, Head of Scheduling, Marine and Battlefields with Historic Scotland, being an officer of the Scottish Ministers at Edinburgh on the 22 day of August Two thousand and thirteen, before this witness Christine Kelly, of Longmore House, Salisbury Place, Edinburgh.
