THE ANCIENT MONUMENTS AND ARCHAEOLOGICAL AREAS ACT 1979
ENTRY IN THE SCHEDULE OF MONUMENTS

The monument known as Braefoot Point, battery comprises the well-preserved remains of a W.W.I battery and associated buildings, plus similar remains of later date. The area to be scheduled is irregular in shape with maximum dimensions of 440m N-S by 230m E-W. The boundary runs, in a clockwise direction, from its NE-most point as follows. Along the line of the boundary wall, (which runs parallel to the perimeter fence of the petro-chemical loading area), until this peters out at the top of the slope leading down to Braefoot Bay, then following the well-defined break of slope for a distance of 400m before turning due S for 20m to meet the shoreline, then WSW for 30m to join the W-most point of the pier. From here it follows the outer edge of the pier, around the perimeter of the same, to where the pier adjoins the track leading N to the Barrack Block. The boundary then follows the W side of this track for 290m and then runs due N for 70m to meet the SW-most point of the track which leads to the N edge of the plantation. The boundary then follows the W side of this track for 150m before turning due E for 170m to meet the starting point. The monument, which lies in the Parish of Dalgety and the County of Fife as shown outlined in red on the Plan annexed and executed as relative hereto is hereby included in the Schedule of Monuments appearing to the Secretary of State for Scotland to be of national importance compiled and maintained by him under section 1(1) of the Ancient Monuments and Archaeological Areas Act 1979.

Subscribed by Frank James Lawrie, Director of Heritage Policy with Historic Scotland, being an officer of the Scottish Ministers at Edinburgh on the 4th day of February Two thousand, before this witness Lesley Macdonald, of Longmore House, Salisbury Place, Edinburgh.
