THE ANCIENT MONUMENTS AND ARCHAEOLOGICAL AREAS ACT 1979
ENTRY IN THE SCHEDULE OF MONUMENTS

The monument known as Rubha an Aird, cairns, comprises two adjacent cairns of prehistoric date, visible as grass-covered mounds. The cairns lie on the rock ridges of Rubha an Aird, at the NE tip of the Mornish peninsula, Mull. The cairns are funerary monuments dating to the Neolithic and Bronze Age (third to second millennium BC), and may be expected to contain material relating to their mode of construction and use. The cist, at the centre of the southernmost cairn, is the remains of a slab-lined prehistoric grave. The two areas to be scheduled include the remains described and areas around them within which related material is likely to survive. Both of these areas are circular, each with a diameter 30m. The monument, which lies in the Parish of Kilninian and Kilmore and the County of Argyll as shown outlined in red on the Plan annexed and executed as relative hereto and which forms part of the subjects [redacted] is hereby included in the Schedule of Monuments appearing to the Scottish Ministers to be of national importance compiled and maintained by them under section 1(1) of the Ancient Monuments and Archaeological Areas Act 1979.

Subscribed by Sheenagh Adams, Director of Heritage Policy with Historic Scotland, being an officer of the Scottish Ministers at Edinburgh on the 14th day of February Two thousand and three, before this witness Lesley Macdonald, of Longmore House, Salisbury Place, Edinburgh.
