ENTRY IN THE SCHEDULE OF MONUMENTS

The monument known as Creagan an Tuirc, fort, comprises a later prehistoric fort. It lies on the rocky summit of an isolated hill within a broad river valley. This encloses an area measuring 66m from NE-SW by 36m transversely, with an entrance on the SSW side. A secondary wall of facing stones surrounds the western half of the entrance. The area to be scheduled is an irregular polygon, to include the fort and an area around in which evidence for its construction and use may survive. The monument, which lies in the Parish of Daviot and Dunlichity and the County of Inverness as shown outlined in red on the Plan annexed and executed as relative hereto [redacted], is hereby included in the Schedule of Monuments appearing to the Scottish Ministers to be of national importance compiled and maintained by them under section 1(1) of the Ancient Monuments and Archaeological Areas Act 1979.

Subscribed by Malcolm Cooper, Chief Inspector with Historic Scotland, being an officer of the Scottish Ministers at Edinburgh on the 9 day of March Two thousand and seven, before this witness Victoria Ball, of Longmore House, Salisbury Place, Edinburgh.
