THE ANCIENT MONUMENTS AND ARCHAEOLOGICAL AREAS ACT 1979 11790
ENTRY IN THE SCHEDULE OF MONUMENTS

The monument known as Groddie Cottage, shielings 2520m, 2630m and 2700m WNW of, comprises the remains of a group of shieling huts, pens and enclosures of late medieval and post-medieval date, visible as a series of upstanding low stone walls, earthen banks, platforms, hollows and mounds. The monument is spread down a N-facing slope to the SSE of the confluence of Deskry Water and the Burn of Riegunachie, between 410m to 440m OD. The monument consists of the remains of at least 15 rectangular or sub-rectangular structures ranging from 4-12m in length and from 2-6m in width. A number of rectilinear and circular pens and platforms lie among the structures. Some of the structures are situated on mounds, one of which is very substantial, measuring some 15m by 10m by up to 1.5m in height. There is a group of stone-built structures at the S, upslope end of the site whose walls stand up to 4 courses high. The area to be scheduled comprises three discrete areas, each an irregular polygon, to include the remains described and an area around them where related material is likely to survive. The N area to be scheduled is bounded on its W and N by the edge of a modern unsurfaced track. The central area to be scheduled is bounded by modern unsurfaced tracks for short distances on its NW and NE sides. The scheduled area specifically excludes these tracks. The monument, which lies in the Parish of Logie-Coldstone and the County of Aberdeen as shown outlined in red on the Plan annexed and executed as relative hereto [redacted] hereby included in the Schedule of Monuments appearing to the Scottish Ministers to be of national importance compiled and maintained by them under section 1(1) of the Ancient Monuments and Archaeological Areas Act 1979.

Subscribed by Malcolm Cooper, Chief Inspector with Historic Scotland, being an officer of the Scottish Ministers at Edinburgh on the 21 day of March Two thousand and seven, before this witness Victoria Ball, of Longmore House, Salisbury Place, Edinburgh.
