THE ANCIENT MONUMENTS AND ARCHAEOLOGICAL AREAS ACT 1979 11851
ENTRY IN THE SCHEDULE OF MONUMENTS

The monument known as Culdoich, chambered cairn and standing stone 620m S of, comprises the remains of an Early Bronze-Age passage grave surviving as a low sub-circular stone and turf-covered mound, a circular arrangement of outer kerbstones and a single standing stone lying 15m to the E of the mound. It belongs to a class of burial cairn known as Clava cairns. The monument survives in cultivated land at 200m above sea level on the S side of the river Nairn. The cairn is roughly circular and 11m in diameter, defined by a ring of outer kerbstones. A single standing stone survives in the E half of the site and may be one of a number of similar stones forming a circle around the burial mound. The area to be scheduled is a clipped circle, to include the remains described above and an area around them in which traces of activity associated with the construction and use of the monument may be expected to survive. The above-ground elements of the modern field boundary are specifically excluded from the scheduling. The monument, which lies in the Parish of Croy and Dalcross and the County of Inverness as shown outlined in red on the Plan annexed and executed as relative hereto [redacted] hereby included in the Schedule of Monuments appearing to the Scottish Ministers to be of national importance compiled and maintained by them under section 1(1) of the Ancient Monuments and Archaeological Areas Act 1979.

Subscribed by Malcolm Cooper, Chief Inspector with Historic Scotland, being an officer of the Scottish Ministers at Edinburgh on the 20 day of March Two thousand and seven, before this witness Victoria Ball, of Longmore House, Salisbury Place, Edinburgh.
