THE ANCIENT MONUMENTS AND ARCHAEOLOGICAL AREAS ACT 1979 12128
ENTRY IN THE SCHEDULE OF MONUMENTS

The monument known as Calvertsholm, settlement 110m N of, comprises the remains of an enclosed settlement and associated droveway. The settlement is Iron Age, likely to date to the late 1st millennium BC or early first millennia AD. It lies 400m S of the Kirtle Water, at 25m above sea level. The enclosure measures 90m N-S by 120m transversely and lies on relatively flat ground. It consists of an irregularly-shaped univallate enclosure, comprising a ditch 3m wide, with a 6m-wide entrance-gap on the N end of the E side. Within the enclosure lie the remains of up to five circular structures, each measuring up to 15m in diameter. A section of the droveway, measuring 90m in length, is included in the area to be scheduled. The area to be scheduled is irregular on plan, to include the remains described and an area around them within which related material may be expected to be found. The scheduled area is bounded on the north-west, north-east and south by a fenceline. This and the above-ground remains of an electricity transformer pole and its stays are specifically excluded from the scheduling, to allow for their maintenance. The monument, which lies in the Parish of Kirkpatrick-Fleming and the County of Dumfries as shown outlined in red on the Plan annexed and executed as relative hereto [redacted] is hereby included in the Schedule of Monuments appearing to the Scottish Ministers to be of national importance compiled and maintained by them under section 1(1) of the Ancient Monuments and Archaeological Areas Act 1979.

Subscribed by Malcolm Cooper, Chief Inspector with Historic Scotland, being an officer of the Scottish Ministers at Edinburgh on the 7th day of November Two thousand and seven, before this witness Victoria Ball, of Longmore House, Salisbury Place, Edinburgh.
