THE ANCIENT MONUMENTS AND ARCHAEOLOGICAL AREAS ACT 1979 12357
ENTRY IN THE SCHEDULE OF MONUMENTS

The monument known as Lumsdaine, settlement 1405m N of comprises a small, enclosed settlement believed to date to either the late prehistoric or early historic period (late 1st millennium BC or early 1st millennium AD). The site, visible as a series of substantial earthworks, occupies a rocky coastal promontory at a height of 120m. The landward W approaches to the promontory are fortified by a pair of crescent-shaped ramparts with a medial ditch. Both ramparts are 2.5m at their widest point and are 2m apart. The outer rampart forms an arc between two sheer-sided inlets on either side of the promontory and is 32m in length, while the inner rampart measures 15m in length. The defences define a triangular-shaped internal area that measures 30m E-W and 30m N-S. The area to be scheduled is irregular on plan, to include the remains described and an area around within which evidence relating to their construction and use may survive. The scheduling specifically excludes the above-ground elements of the stob-and-wire fence that lies on the S edge of the scheduled area to allow for their maintenance. The monument, which lies in the Parish of Coldingham and the County of Berwick as shown in red on the Plan annexed and executed as relative hereto [redacted] is hereby included in the Schedule of Monuments appearing to the Scottish Ministers to be of national importance compiled and maintained by them under section 1(1) of the Ancient Monuments and Archaeological Areas Act 1979.

Subscribed by Malcolm Cooper, Chief Inspector with Historic Scotland, being an officer of the Scottish Ministers at Edinburgh on the 4 day of March Two thousand and nine, before this witness Luke Wormald, of Longmore House, Salisbury Place, Edinburgh.
