

THE ANCIENT MONUMENTS AND ARCHAEOLOGICAL AREAS ACT 1979 12440
ENTRY IN THE SCHEDULE OF MONUMENTS

The monument known as Mote Hill, cairn 365m NW of Cowstones comprises a substantial Bronze-Age burial cairn that survives as a grass-covered mound. It is sited in an area of pasture near the crest of Temple hill, on the hill's SW face at 100m above sea level. The cairn measures 24m in diameter and stands to a height of 2m. A robber trench runs from the NNE edge of the cairn into its centre. Some exposed stone is visible on the cairn, and a small corrugated iron hut has been constructed in the centre with another small corrugated iron structure on the SE arc of the cairn. The area to be scheduled in circular on plan, centred on the mound, to include the remains described and an area around within which evidence relating to its construction and use may survive. Specifically excluded from this scheduling are the above-ground remains of the central corrugated iron hut and the corrugated iron structure on the SE arc, and the above-ground elements of the stone dyke and associated post-and-wire fence that mark the limit of the scheduled area on the S arc of the site. The monument, which lies in the Parish of Fintray and the County of Aberdeen as shown in red on the Plan annexed and executed as relative hereto is hereby included in the Schedule of Monuments appearing to the Scottish Ministers to be of national importance compiled and maintained by them under section 1(1) of the Ancient Monuments and Archaeological Areas Act 1979.

Subscribed by Malcolm Cooper, Chief Inspector with Historic Scotland, being an officer of the Scottish Ministers at Edinburgh on the 20 day of February Two thousand and eight, before this witness Luke Wormald, of Longmore House, Salisbury Place, Edinburgh.
