

THE ANCIENT MONUMENTS AND ARCHAEOLOGICAL AREAS ACT 1979 12488
ENTRY IN THE SCHEDULE OF MONUMENTS

The monument known as Witches Cleuch, fort 430m ENE of Chesterfield comprises the remains of a small inland promontory fort of later prehistoric or early-historic date. The site lies in a naturally strong defensive position at 45m above sea level, with steep-sided slopes on all sides except the north, where it is approached across a narrow strip of level ground. The monument survives as the earthwork remains of the N defence of the site, and the area it encloses. The N defence is visible as a ditch running E-W across the neck of the promontory, measuring 6m in width and 1m in depth. The area to be scheduled is irregular on plan, to include the remains described and an area around within which evidence relating to their construction and use may survive. The scheduled area extends up to, but does not include, the post-and-wire fence at the N edge. The monument, which lies in the Parish of Mordington and the County of Berwick as shown in red on the Plan annexed and executed as relative hereto is hereby included in the Schedule of Monuments appearing to the Scottish Ministers to be of national importance compiled and maintained by them under section 1(1) of the Ancient Monuments and Archaeological Areas Act 1979.

Subscribed by Malcolm Cooper, Chief Inspector with Historic Scotland, being an officer of the Scottish Ministers at Edinburgh on the 4 day of May Two thousand and nine, before this witness Luke Wormald, of Longmore House, Salisbury Place, Edinburgh.
