THE ANCIENT MONUMENTS AND ARCHAEOLOGICAL AREAS ACT 1979 12507
ENTRY IN THE SCHEDULE OF MONUMENTS

The monument known as Dunside Hill, cairn 1225m S of Byrecleugh comprises a burial cairn likely to date to the neolithic or Bronze-Age. It survives as a low grass-and stone-covered mound which is obscured by later clearance and stone dyking. It sits at the SW edge of the summit to Dunside Hill on moorland and rough pasture at 435m above sea level, on the SE edge of the Lammermuir Hills. The cairn is built on a low, grass-covered, stony platform 12m across. The area to be scheduled is circular on plan, centred on the monument, to include the remains described and an area around within which evidence relating to their construction and use may survive. The scheduling specifically excludes the above-ground elements of the modern marker cairn and the abutting dyke in order to allow for their maintenance. The monument, which lies in the Parish of Longformacus and the County of Berwickshire as shown in red on the Plan annexed and executed as relative hereto [redacted] is hereby included in the Schedule of Monuments appearing to the Scottish Ministers to be of national importance compiled and maintained by them under section 1(1) of the Ancient Monuments and Archaeological Areas Act 1979.

Subscribed by Malcolm Cooper, Chief Inspector with Historic Scotland, being an officer of the Scottish Ministers at Edinburgh on the 4 day of March Two thousand and Nine, before this witness Luke Wormald, of Longmore House, Salisbury Place, Edinburgh.
