THE ANCIENT MONUMENTS AND ARCHAEOLOGICAL AREAS ACT 1979 12531
ENTRY IN THE SCHEDULE OF MONUMENTS

The monument known as No 9 Kirkbanny, settlement 360m W of comprises the remains of at least two enclosures and associated features interpreted as multi-phased settlement dating to the later prehistoric period, visible as linear cropmarks on cultivated land. The monument is located between 115m and 120m, above sea level, 740m west of Deans Burn. The visible traces of the settlement consist of two distinct enclosures and other features. The smaller, sub-circular, enclosure is defined by double ditches between 2-6m apart and measures between 82-90m in diameter. The outer ditch is 1.5-3m in width, the inner ditch is between 3-6m in width. A ring ditch lies within the interior of this enclosure measuring 23m in diameter with its E portion missing. This sits within the E side of traces of a larger circular ditch measuring around 45m in diameter, with a narrow ditch of 1m in width. These features intersect with the N area of a sub-rectangular enclosure of linear ditches. It is trapezoidal in shape and measures 120m SSW to NNE and between 114-150m WNW to ESE. The ditch measures between 1-3m in width and there is a further section, measuring 22m, within the E side of the interior. In addition to the portion where the two enclosures overlap to the N, there are two other gaps within this enclosure, at the NE and SE corners. At the SE corner the gap is formed by the S boundary of the enclosure deviating from its straight line and curving north. The area to be scheduled is trapezoidal in plan, to include the remains described and area around within which evidence relating to its construction and use may survive. The monument, which lies in the Parish of Foulden and the County of Berwick as shown in red on the Plan annexed and executed as relative hereto [redacted] is hereby included in the Schedule of Monuments appearing to the Scottish Ministers to be of national importance compiled and maintained by them under section 1(1) of the Ancient Monuments and Archaeological Areas Act 1979.

Subscribed by Malcolm Cooper, Chief Inspector with Historic Scotland, being an officer of the Scottish Ministers at Edinburgh on the 5 day of JANY Two thousand and nine, before this witness Luke Wormald, of Longmore House, Salisbury Place, Edinburgh.
