THE ANCIENT MONUMENTS AND ARCHAEOLOGICAL AREAS ACT 1979 12952
ENTRY IN THE SCHEDULE OF MONUMENTS

The monument known as Hangingshaw Farm, Roman camp and prehistoric enclosures 800m WNW of comprises the remains a prehistoric palisaded settlement, a prehistoric rectilinear settlement and a Roman camp, which together are likely to span a period from about 1200 BC to AD 300. All three archaeological sites survive as buried features which are visible as cropmarks captured on aerial photographs. The cropmarks define two sides of a square or rectangular Roman camp, with one rounded corner visible. A probable entrance on the E side of the camp appears as a simple gap in the ditch. The prehistoric settlements are immediately adjacent to one another and lie within the northern part of the camp. The monument lies about 50m above sea level on the E bank of the River Annan, on relatively flat arable land. The scheduled area is irregular on plan, to include the remains described above and an area around them within which evidence relating to the monument's construction, use and abandonment is expected to survive. The scheduled area specifically excludes the above-ground elements of all post-and-wire fences, hedges, telegraph poles, the top 300mm of modern tracks, and the entirety of the flood defences along the River Annan. The monument, which lies in the Parish of Applegarth and the County of Dumfries as shown in red on the Plan annexed and executed as relative hereto [redacted] is hereby included in the Schedule of Monuments appearing to the Scottish Ministers to be of national importance compiled and maintained by them under section 1(1) of the Ancient Monuments and Archaeological Areas Act 1979.

Subscribed by Barbara Cummins, Director of Heritage Management with Historic Scotland, being an officer of the Scottish Ministers at Edinburgh on the 5 day of December Two thousand and thirteen, before this witness Victoria Murray, of Longmore House, Salisbury Place, Edinburgh.
