

THE ANCIENT MONUMENTS AND ARCHAEOLOGICAL AREAS ACT 1979 12981
ENTRY IN THE SCHEDULE OF MONUMENTS

The monument known as Philphaugh, settlement and burial ground 150m S of Calton Cottage comprises the buried remains of an early historic settlement dating probably to around the 7th century AD. Cropmarks visible on aerial photographs indicate the positions of at least seven rectangular timber buildings and a further seven probable buildings with sunken floors, together with part of a substantial rectangular enclosure, a series of curved boundary ditches or enclosures, and an enclosed burial ground with around 90 graves laid out in rows. The monument lies at about 120m above sea level on relatively flat land in the valley of the Ettrick Water. It is sited around 0.7 km west of Selkirk, between the A708 and the Ettrick Water. The area to be scheduled is irregular on plan, to include the remains described above and an area around them within which evidence relating to the monument's construction, use and abandonment may survive, as shown in red on the accompanying map. On the NE side, the scheduled area extends up to, but excludes, a post-and-wire fence. On the NW side, the scheduling extends up to the edge of the road. The above-ground elements of all fences are specifically excluded from the scheduling to allow for their upkeep and maintenance. The monument, which lies in the Parish of Selkirk and the County of Selkirk as shown in red on the Plan annexed and executed as relative hereto

[REDACTED], is hereby included in the Schedule of Monuments appearing to the Scottish Ministers to be of national importance compiled and maintained by them under section 1(1) of the Ancient Monuments and Archaeological Areas Act 1979.

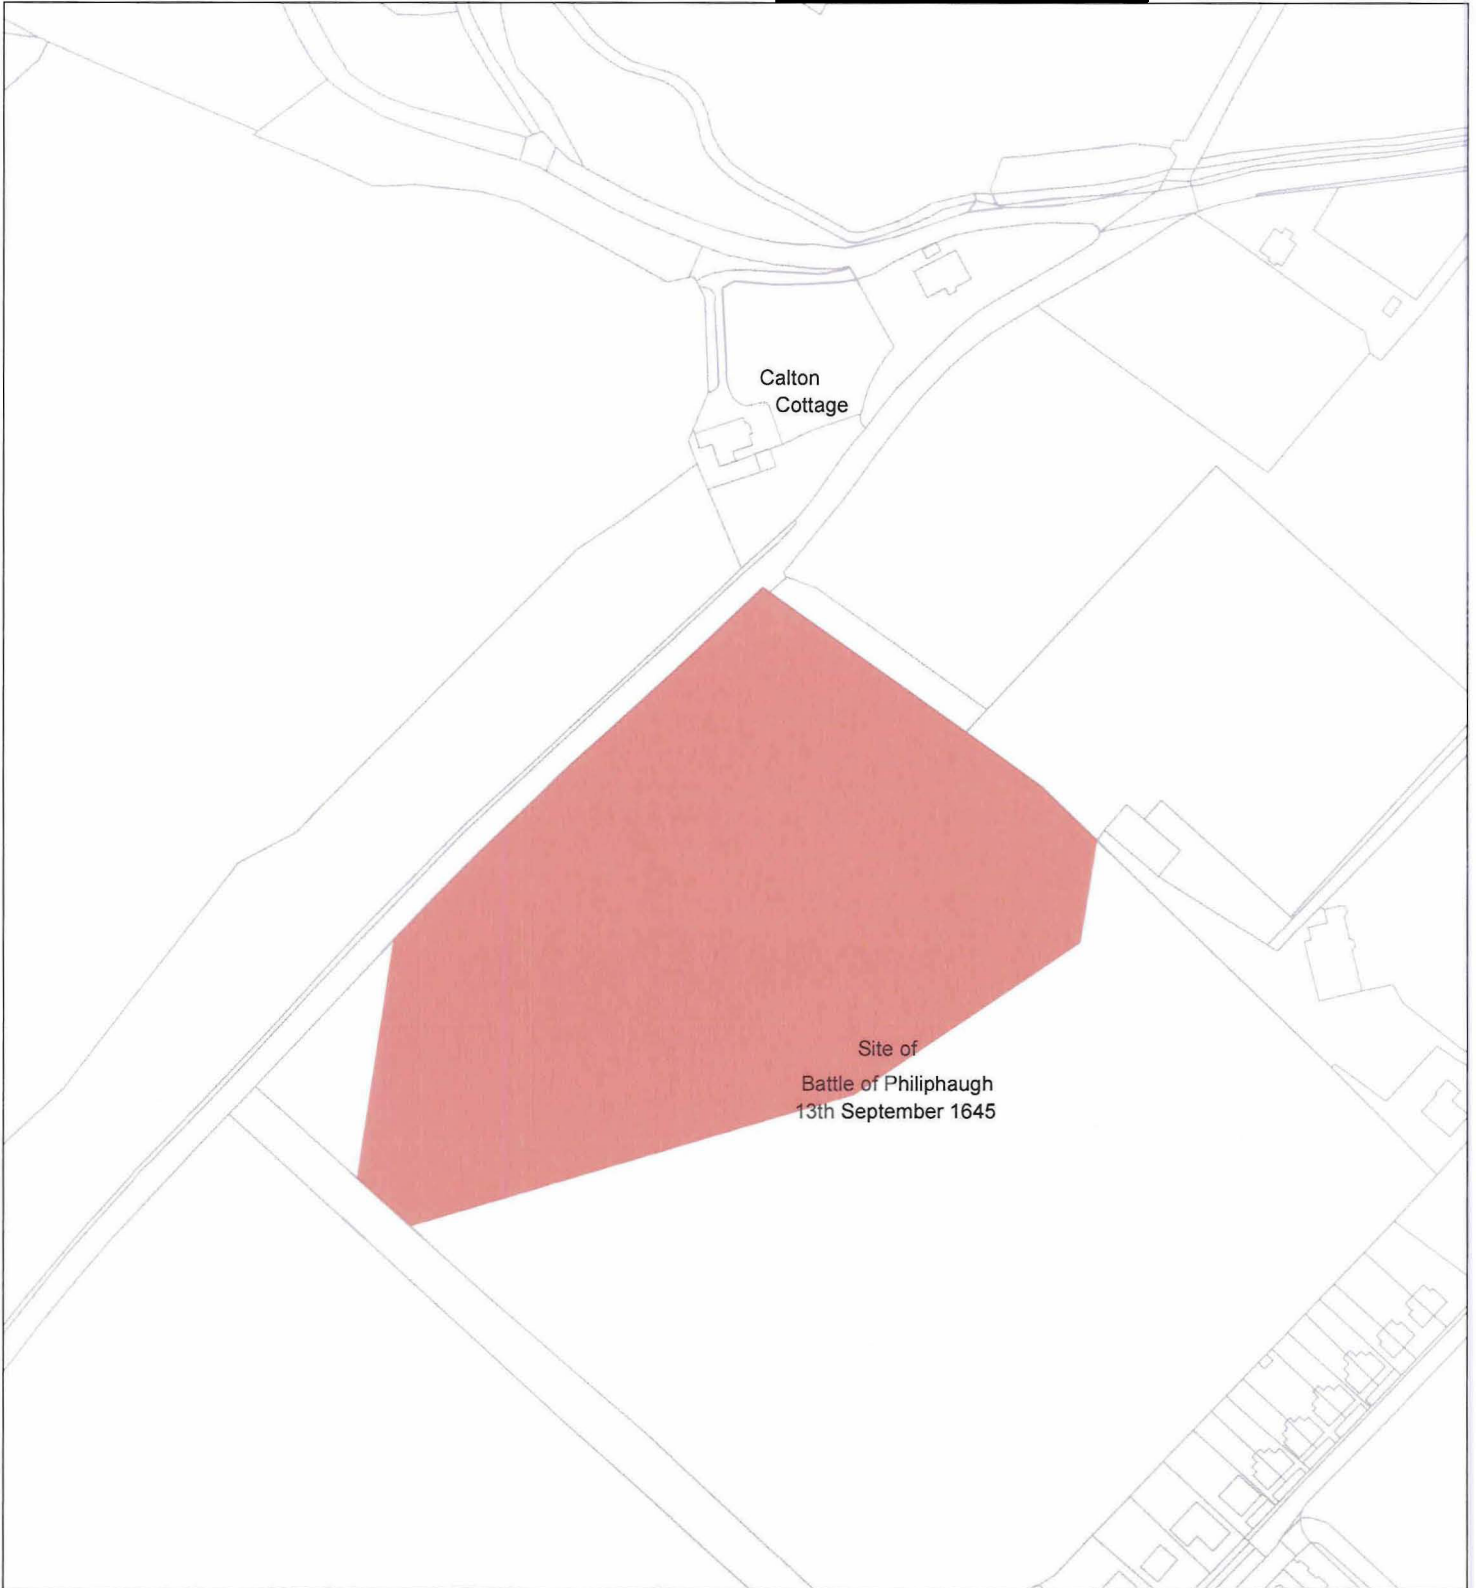

Subscribed by Deborah Mays, Deputy Chief Inspector with Historic Scotland, being an officer of the Scottish Ministers at Edinburgh on the 31st day of March Two thousand and eleven, before this witness Victoria Murray, of Longmore House, Salisbury Place, Edinburgh.
