

THE ANCIENT MONUMENTS AND ARCHAEOLOGICAL AREAS ACT 1979 13279
ENTRY IN THE SCHEDULE OF MONUMENTS

The monument known as Kilberry Castle, crosses 50m E of, and carved stones 215m NE of comprises a collection of carved stones (housed and displayed within a specially built shelter), the Kilberry Cross base and a smaller cross. The carved stones are likely to date to the early Christian, medieval and late medieval periods. Most of the carved stones are likely to have originated from a medieval parish church known to have stood nearby. The collection includes early Christian cross-marked stones, fragments of medieval free-standing crosses, several graveslabs (including two full-sized effigies) carved in the late medieval West Highland style dating to the 15th century, and several 17th-century graveslabs. The Kilberry Cross base is situated 180m SW of the shelter, on or close to its original location, and supports a replica cross shaft. The small cross stands adjacent to the cross base; it stands approximately 0.75m high and is 0.3m wide and 0.15m thick. The area to be scheduled is in two separate parts. The first comprises the collection of carved and sculptured stones within the stone shelter, and the area around the shelter up to but not including the post-and-wire fence enclosure. The second area is circular on plan, measuring 10m in diameter centred on the cross base, to include the cross base, the smaller cross and an area around them. The structure of the modern shelter and the interpretation panels are specifically excluded from the scheduling. The monument, which lies in the Parish of South Knapdale and the County of Argyll as shown in red on the Plan annexed and executed as relative hereto

[REDACTED], is hereby included in the Schedule of Monuments appearing to the Scottish Ministers to be of national importance compiled and maintained by them under section 1(1) of the Ancient Monuments and Archaeological Areas Act 1979.

Subscribed by Olwyn Owen, Head of Scheduling, Marine and Battlefields with Historic Scotland, being an officer of the Scottish Ministers at Edinburgh on the 15th day of March Two thousand and thirteen, before this witness Christine Kelly, of Longmore House, Salisbury Place, Edinburgh.
