THE ANCIENT MONUMENTS AND ARCHAEOLOGICAL AREAS ACT 1979 13499
ENTRY IN THE SCHEDULE OF MONUMENTS

The monument known as Burray Ness, anti-aircraft battery (WW1), Burray comprises one of two First World War anti-aircraft batteries defending the strategic harbour of Scapa Flow. The battery is visible as a series of concrete and stone features comprising two concrete gun emplacements, a magazine, a possible searchlight emplacement and several concrete bases for associated accommodation buildings. It occupies a highly strategic location on the headland at Burray Ness, with extensive views to the S and E across the North Sea. The scheduled area is irregular on plan to include the remains described above and an area around them within which evidence relating to the monument's construction and use is expected to survive. The scheduling specifically excludes the above-ground elements of the Ordnance Survey triangulation station to allow for its maintenance. The monument, which lies in the Parish of South Ronaldsay and the County of Orkney and Zetland as shown in red on the Plan annexed and executed as relative hereto and which forms part of the subjects registered in the Land Register of Scotland under Title No OAZ7436 [redacted], is hereby included in the Schedule of Monuments appearing to the Scottish Ministers to be of national importance compiled and maintained by them under section 1(1) of the Ancient Monuments and Archaeological Areas Act 1979.

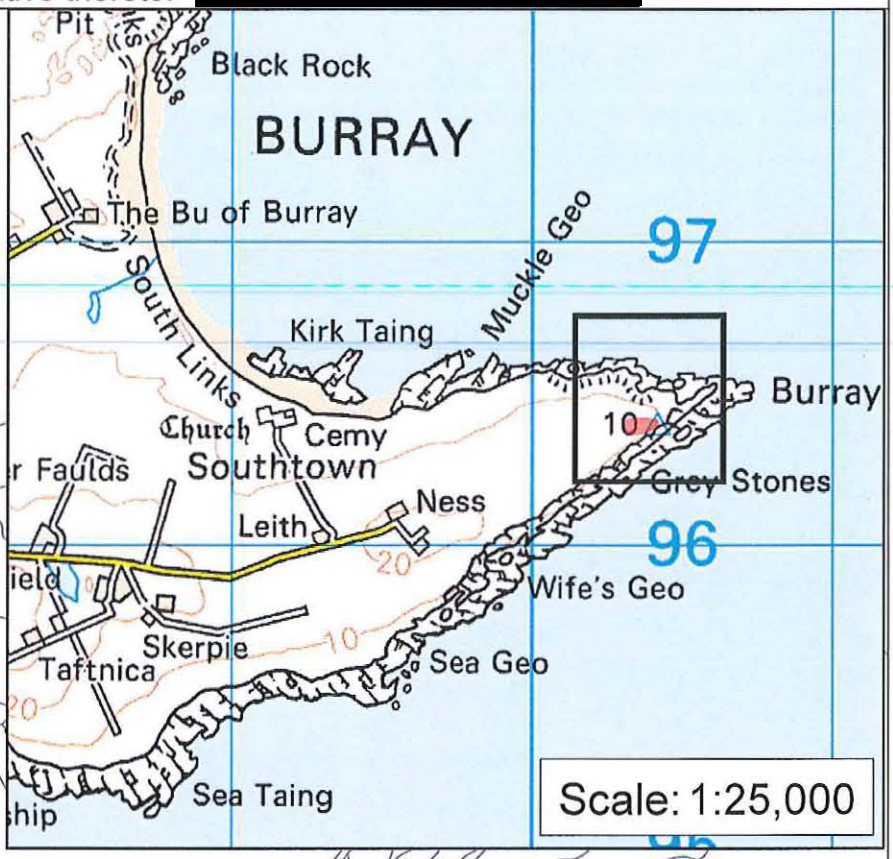

Subscribed by Barbara Cummins, Director of Heritage Management with Historic Scotland, being an officer of the Scottish Ministers at Edinburgh on the 17 day of December Two thousand and fourteen, before this witness Victoria Murray, of Longmore House, Salisbury Place, Edinburgh.
