THE ANCIENT MONUMENTS AND ARCHAEOLOGICAL AREAS ACT 1979 13589
ENTRY IN THE SCHEDULE OF MONUMENTS

The monument known as Niddrie, standing stone 65m SSE of 160 Greendykes Road comprises a standing stone dating probably to the late Neolithic or Bronze Age (late third or second millennium BC). The stone stands immediately to the SE of a disused burial ground. It stands on relatively level ground around 50m above sea level and about 280m N of the Niddrie Burn. The scheduled area is circular on plan, measuring 3m in diameter, centred on the stone. The scheduling includes the standing stone and an area around it within which evidence relating to the monument's erection and use is expected to survive. The scheduling specifically excludes the top 20cm of a path to the SE of the stone. Railings associated with the burial ground lie beyond the scheduled area to the NW. Also excluded are all modern buried utility services and the soil that overlies them within their existing trenches. The monument, which lies in the Parish of Edinburgh and the County of Midlothian as shown in red on the Plan annexed and executed as relative hereto [redacted], is hereby included in the Schedule of Monuments appearing to the Scottish Ministers to be of national importance compiled and maintained by them under section 1(1) of the Ancient Monuments and Archaeological Areas Act 1979.

Subscribed by Barbara Cummins, Director of Heritage Management with Historic Scotland, being an officer of the Scottish Ministers at Edinburgh on the 25 day of August Two thousand and fifteen, before this witness Victoria Murray, of Longmore House, Salisbury Place, Edinburgh.
