THE ANCIENT MONUMENTS AND ARCHAEOLOGICAL AREAS ACT 1979
ENTRY IN THE SCHEDULE OF MONUMENTS

The monument known as Dunstaffnage Castle comprises a castle, whose visible remains date back to the 13th Century, and the remains of associated structures. The castle is built on a rock some 6m to 9m in height. The curtain walls follow the shape of the rock giving an irregular quadrilateral plan. At each corner are slightly expressed round corner towers. The east or gate tower was remodelled to produce what is effectively a tower house over the entrance. Beyond the walls of the castle stand the remains of the 18th Century stables and a cottage. The area to be scheduled includes all the features described and an area around them which is likely to retain archaeological evidence relating to their construction and use. It is defined to the east by the stone boundary wall, to the NW by a line 20m out from the NW wall of the castle and to the SW by a line 50m out from the SW wall of the castle. The area measures approximately 140m SW-NE at its greatest extent by 140m. The monument, which lies in the Parish of Kilmore and Kilbride and the County of Argyll as shown outlined in red on the Plan annexed and executed as relative hereto is hereby included in the Schedule of Monuments appearing to the Scottish Ministers to be of national importance compiled and maintained by them under section 1(1) of the Ancient Monuments and Archaeological Areas Act 1979.

Subscribed by Frank James Lawrie, Director of Heritage Policy with Historic Scotland, being an officer of the Scottish Ministers at Edinburgh on the 23rd day of November Nineteen hundred and ninety-nine, before this witness Lesley Macdonald, of Longmore House, Salisbury Place, Edinburgh.
