The Ancient Monuments and Archaeological Areas Act 1979

Addition to the schedule of monuments

Historic Environment Scotland in exercise of the powers conferred on it by section 1(1) of the Ancient Monuments and Archaeological Areas Act 1979 hereby adds to the statutory schedule of monuments as set out below.

The monument known as Knockbrex Fort, 55m ENE of Doonwood comprises the remains of a fort, probably dating to the Iron Age (between about 800 BC and AD 500). The fort's ramparts are visible as turf-covered banks and the ditches as depressions. The monument lies 20m above sea level, on a ridge orientated west-southwest north-northeast. There are views northwest and southwest from the site towards the coast.

The scheduled area is irregular on plan and includes the remains described above and an area around them within which evidence relating to the monument's construction, use and abandonment is expected to survive. The scheduling extends to, but excludes, the stone dyke to the west of the fort.

The monument, which lies in the Parish of Borgue and the County of Kirkcudbright as shown in red on the plan annexed and executed as relative hereto.
