The Ancient Monuments and Archaeological Areas Act 1979

Amended entry in the schedule of monuments

Historic Environment Scotland in exercise of the powers conferred on it by section 1(1) of the Ancient Monuments and Archaeological Areas Act 1979 hereby amends the entry in the statutory schedule of monuments as set out below.

The monument known as Loch Coille-Bharr crannog, Knapdale comprises the submerged remains of a crannog, an artificial island structure which may date to between 500 BC and AD 400. The crannog is approximately 9m in diameter and it is located at the southern end of Loch Coille-Bharr, approximately 30m above sea level. None of the site is visible above the water.

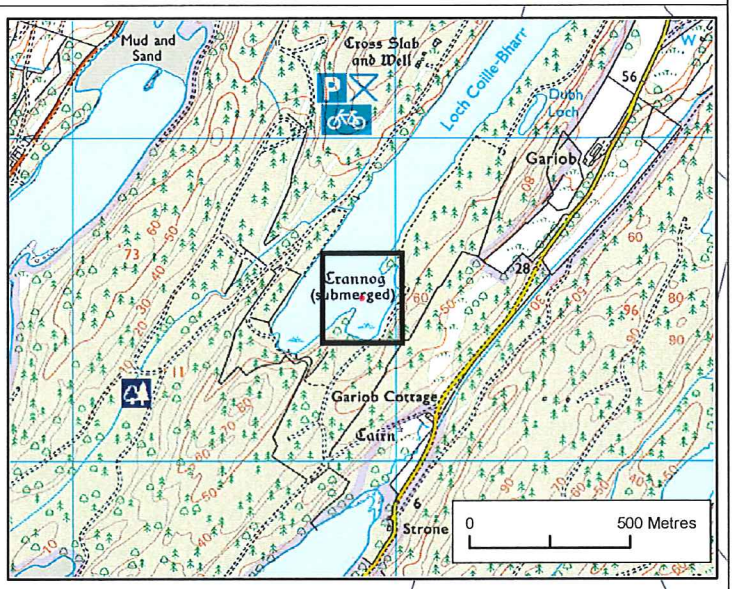

The scheduled area is circular on plan measuring 20m in diameter to include the remains described above and an area around them within which evidence relating to the monument's construction, use and abandonment may survive.

The monument, which lies in the Parish of North Knapdale and the County of Argyll as shown in red on the plan annexed and executed as relative hereto.

This entry supersedes the Entry in the Schedule of Monuments for the monument known then as Loch Coille-Bharr crannog, Knapdale as referred to in the Entry in the Schedule of Monuments by the Scottish Ministers in respect of the monument dated 12 December 2001 and recorded in the General Register of Sasines for the County of Argyll on 21 February 2002.

Dated: 19 / 09 / 2016
