The Ancient Monuments and Archaeological Areas Act 1979

Amended entry in the schedule of monuments

Historic Environment Scotland in exercise of the powers conferred on it by section 1(1) of the Ancient Monuments and Archaeological Areas Act 1979 hereby amends the entry in the statutory schedule of monuments as set out below.

The monument known as Carman Fort, 930m ESE of Asker Farm comprises a fort dating to the Iron Age (between about 800 BC and 500 AD). It is visible as a series of earthworks defining an oval enclosure within a sub-circular outer enclosure and the remains of up to 15 roundhouses. The monument surmounts a relatively steep hill at about 240m above sea level with the River Clyde visible in the distance.

The scheduled area is irregular on plan, to include the remains described above and an area around them within which evidence relating to the monument's construction, use and abandonment is expected to survive. The scheduling specifically excludes the above-ground elements of the stone dyke that runs northwest-southeast across the monument.

The monument, which lies in the Parish of Bonhill and the County of Dumbarton as shown in red on the plan annexed and executed as relative hereto.

This entry supersedes the Entry in the Schedule of Monuments for the monument known then as Carman Iron Age Fort as referred to in the Certificate of Service of Notice by the Minister of Works in respect of the monument dated 8 December 1960 and recorded in the General Register of Sasines for the County of Dumbarton on 12 January 1961.
