4 Summary of proposed works (max 20 words)

Installation of LED floodlighting system, cabling and distribution boxes

5 Description of proposed works

St Andrews Cathedral was floodlit in the 1990s and 200s, but the lights fell into disrepair and were removed in 2010. It is now proposed to re-install lighting, using modern LED technology which is far more energy-efficient and requires substantially less maintenance - whilst providing even more effective and dramatic lighting effects. There will be fewer lights than before, and with one sole exception, the new lights and distribution points will be installed at exactly the same locations as the previous equipment. In addition, existing cabling routes will be re-used, which will ensure that there is minimal intrusion to the monument either above or below ground. The lighting contractors and suppliers to be used are amongst the world's leaders in this field, whilst at local level the electrical installation will be carried out by the contractor who removed the previous scheme. A full servicing and maintenance contract forms part of the responsibilities to be entered in to by St Andrews Partnership. The lights will create a true spectacle which will enhance the monument and increase its profile worldwide.

8 Other information relevant to application

The ongoing sustainability of the lighting scheme is highly important to all parties, and for that reason the applicant will assure Historic Environment Scotland, via a separate operating agreement, that the lights will be maintained to a high standard, with the charity placing monies in a 'restricted fund' to be used exclusively for operating and maintenance costs, and indeed removal of the scheme should that ever become necessary.
