The Ancient Monuments and Archaeological Areas Act 1979

Amended entry in the schedule of monuments

Historic Environment Scotland in exercise of the powers conferred on it by section 1(1) of the Ancient Monuments and Archaeological Areas Act 1979 hereby amends the entry in the statutory schedule of monuments as set out below.

The monument known as Rough Hill, motte comprises a motte, the earthwork mound of a castle likely to date from the 12th or 13th centuries AD. It is visible as a substantial flat topped sub-oval mound and curving section of ditch. The traces of the ditch survive around the base of the mound to the south and west, while the remains of a rectangular building are visible on the summit of the mound. The monument is located in mature woodland at the west side of East Kilbride at about 130m above sea level.

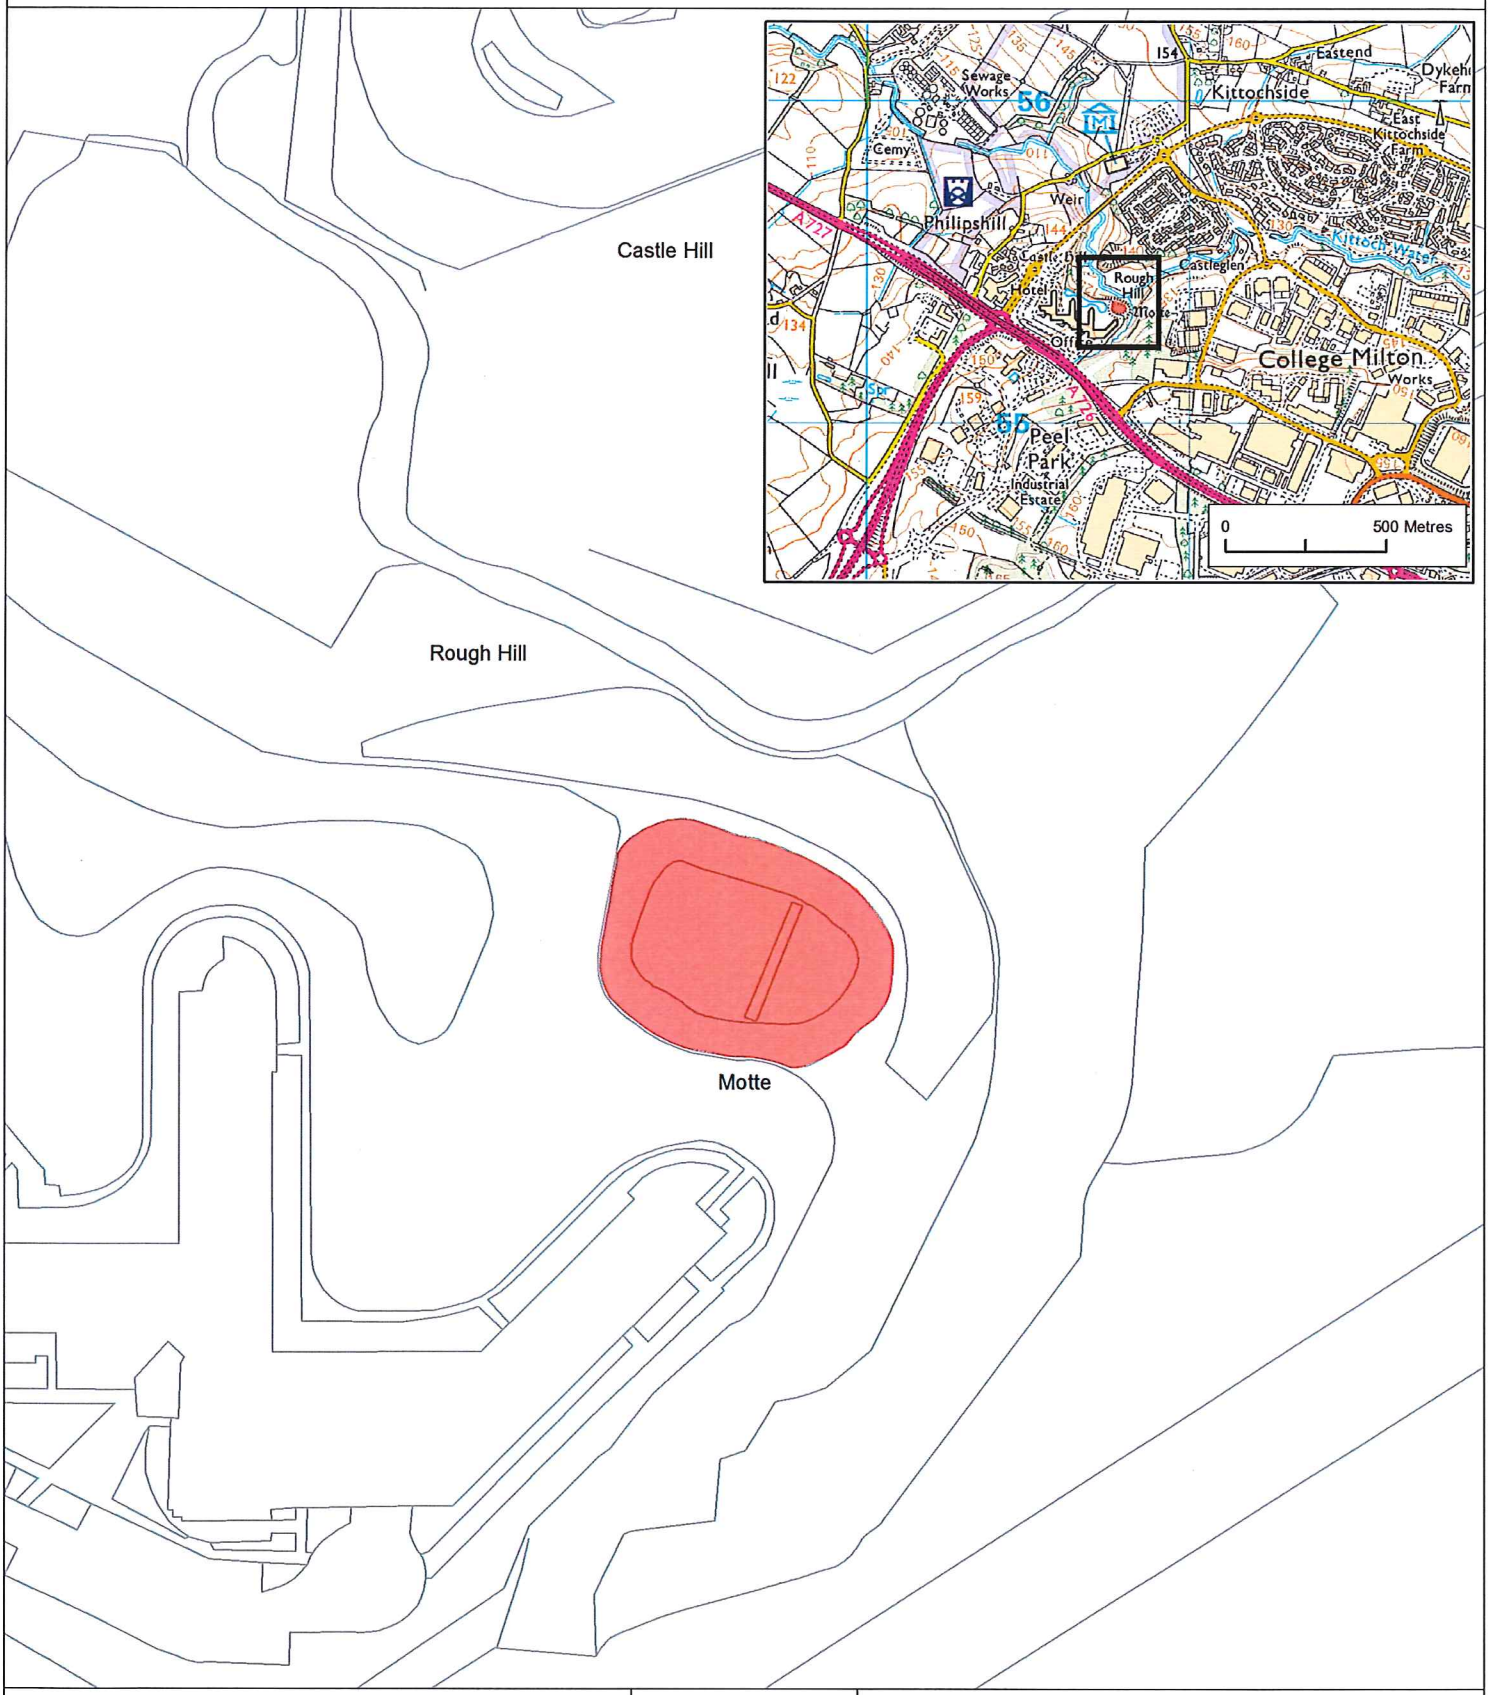

The scheduled area is irregular on plan and includes the remains described above and an area around them within which evidence relating to the monument's construction, use and abandonment is expected to survive. The scheduling specifically excludes the above-ground elements of all modern boundary features.

The monument, which lies in the Parish of East Kilbride and the County of Lanark as shown in red on the plan annexed and executed as relative hereto.

This entry supersedes the Entry in the Schedule of Monuments for the monument known then as Rough Hill, motte as referred to in the Entry in the Schedule of Monuments by the Secretary of State for Scotland in respect of the monument dated 18 February 1991 and recorded in the General Register of Sasines for the County of Lanark on 25 March 1992.
