The Ancient Monuments and Archaeological Areas Act 1979

Addition to the schedule of monuments

Historic Environment Scotland in exercise of the powers conferred on it by section 1(1) of the Ancient Monuments and Archaeological Areas Act 1979 hereby adds to the statutory schedule of monuments as set out below.

The monument known as Badger Fall, still 150m SSE of, Glen Affric comprises the remains of an illicit whisky still, probably dating to the 18th or early 19th centuries. It survives as a small enclosure of stone walls and banks, with an attached lade. The monument is located within woodland, in a secluded gully on the south east side of a small burn feeding into the River Affric, at around 140m above sea level.

The scheduled area is rectangular on plan to include the remains described above and an area around them within which evidence relating to the monument's construction, use and abandonment is expected to survive.

The monument, which lies in the Parish of Kilmorack and the County of Inverness as shown in red on the plan annexed and executed as relative hereto.
