At previous Annual monument Audits we discussed backfilling of the exposed rabbit holes to prevent their continued use or re-use. Our colleagues in C&RT would prefer we hold off this action at present as they are considering a research archaeological dig on the site that would hopefully be able to inform how we go about this work, so the proposed works in this application are all non-invasive to the site but are an attempt or reduce the current damage being caused to the site by rabbits (see attached Erosion Survey of 2014).

4 Summary of proposed works (max 20 words)

Pest control works: gassing and shooting of rabbits residing on the site and installation of a rabbit-proof fence.

5 Description of proposed works

The works comprise:

- 1) Gassing of the rabbits continuing to reside on the site (after the previous removal of all the gorse cover from the site). This will be carried out by a specialist pest control contractor and involve bringing onto site additional material, namely turf from off-site to temporarily block up holes while the gassing takes place. After gassing, and a night shoot to catch those rabbits fleeing the burrows, all the material that has been brought onto site will be removed from site together with the corpses of the dead shot rabbits. (It is unfeasible to remove the gassed carcasses in the rabbit burrows).
- 2) Erection of a post and wire rabbit-proof fence incorporating 2 no. field gates, a stile and 6 no. rabbit boxes (for details see attached drawing). The fence will sit along the boundary of the Guardianship area but enclosing the triangle of land to the NE of this bounded by the stone wall.
