Historic Environment Scotland in exercise of the powers conferred on it by section 1(1) of the Ancient Monuments and Archaeological Areas Act 1979 hereby adds to the statutory schedule of monuments as set out below.

The monument known as Tom Chaiseil, homestead comprises a homestead, a large monumental roundhouse dating to the Iron Age (between 600 BC and AD 400). It is visible as a roughly circular enclosure measuring about 16m in diameter defined by an intermittent stone bank up to three metres in width. The bank's outer face is preserved around part of the circumference and has been incorporated into a modern wall on the southwest. The monument lies on the summit of a small hill, at about 170m above sea level.

The scheduled area is circular on plan, measuring 50m in diameter, to include the remains described above and an area around within which evidence relating to the monument's construction, use and abandonment is expected to survive.
