The Ancient Monuments and Archaeological Areas Act 1979

Amended entry in the schedule of monuments

Historic Environment Scotland in exercise of the powers conferred on it by section 1(5) of the Ancient Monuments and Archaeological Areas Act 1979 hereby amends the entry in the statutory schedule of monuments as set out below.

The monument known as 18th century military road, ESE of Inveroran Hotel comprises a section of engineered military road likely to date to around 1752/3. This section of road covers a straight-line distance of approximately 1680m and with an average width of approximately 4m. It survives as the partly visible remains of a loose road surface and its associated construction works, located in upland moor. From its southern end, the monument rises from 200m above sea level to a height of 294m and then downslope to approximately 180m at its northern end. It is part of a longer 18th century military road which connected Stirling with Fort William.

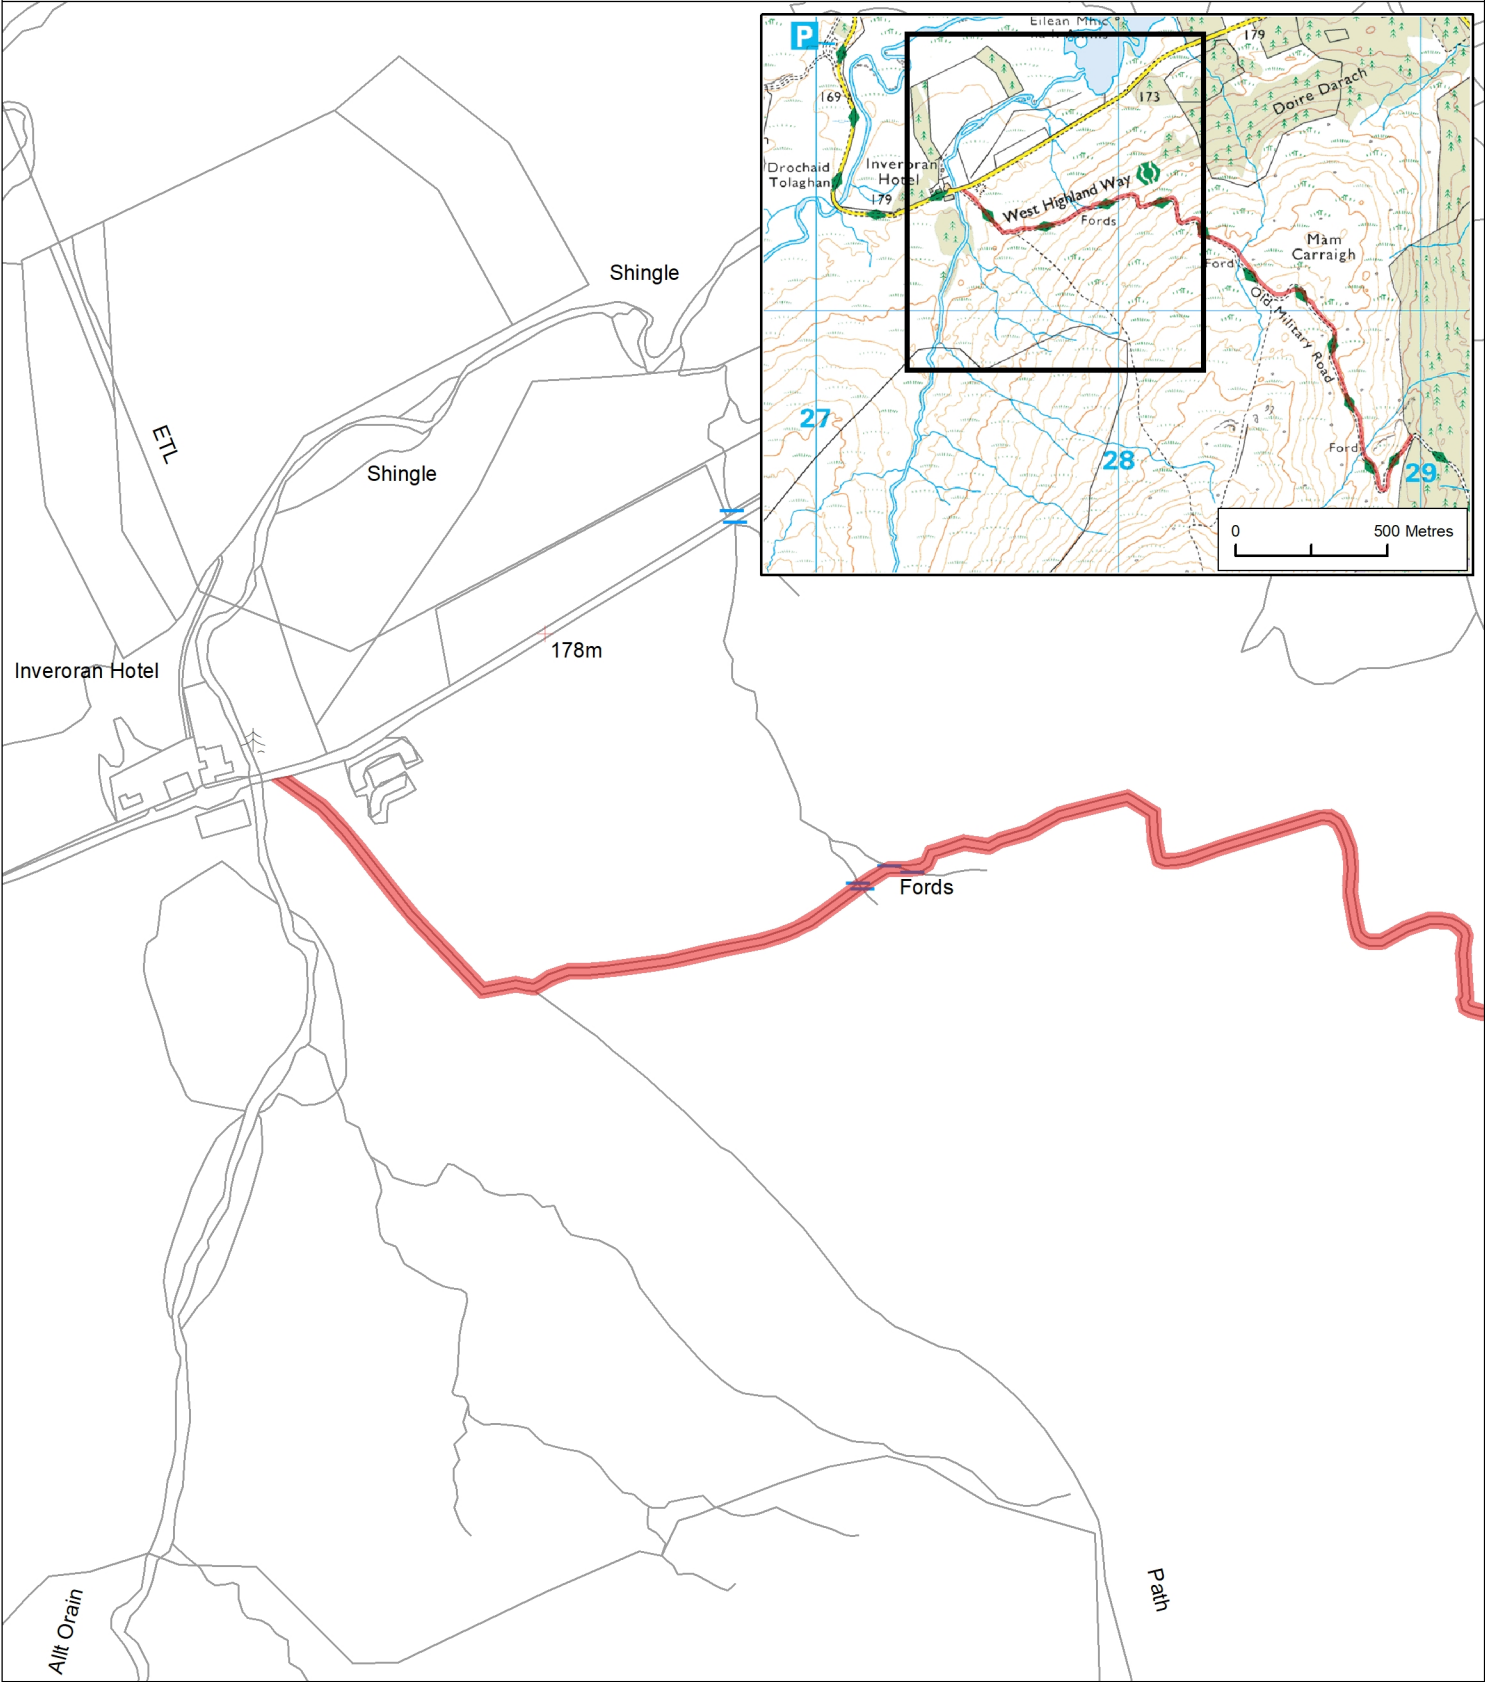

The scheduled area is irregular, covering an overall distance of approximately 2400m at 10m wide. It includes the remains described above and an area around within which evidence relating to the monument's construction, use and abandonment is expected to survive. Specifically excluded from the scheduling are the above-ground remains of all modern boundary features as well as the above-ground elements of all signage.

The monument lies in the Parish of Glenorchy and Inishail and the County of Argyll, as shown in red on the plan annexed and executed as relative hereto.

This entry supersedes the entry in the schedule of monuments for the monument known then as Military Road between Inveroran and Bridge of Orchy as referred to in the Certificate of Service of Notice by the Secretary of State for Scotland in respect of the monument dated 19 December 1969.

Authorised by Allan Rutherford, Deputy Head of Designations with Historic Environment Scotland on 20/01/2021.
